Rep. Ann Flood Named to PA Governors Advisory Commission on Women

Local Rep. Ann Flood was sworn in as one of 27 new members of the Governor's Advisory Commission on Women during a ceremony in Harrisburg on Thursday. The commission also held its first quarterly meeting.

The commission's role is to advise the governor on the experiences and needs of Pennsylvania women and how best to meet them. I look forward to working with my commission colleagues for the benefit of all women in our Commonwealth.

FDA Okays First Oral Treatment for Postpartum Depression

Today, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved Zuruvae (zuranolone), the first oral medication indicated to treat postpartum depression (PPD) in adults. PPD is a major depressive episode that typically occurs after childbirth but can also begin during the later stages of pregnancy. Until now, treatment for PPD was only available as an IV injection given by a health care provider in certain health care facilities.

"Postpartum depression is a serious and potentially life-threatening condition in which women experience sadness, guilt, worthlessness—even, in severe cases, thoughts of harming themselves or their child. And, because postpartum depression can disrupt the maternal-infant bond, it can also have consequences for the child's physical and emotional development," said Tiffany R. Farchione, M.D., director of the Division of Psychiatry in the FDA's Center for Drug Evaluation and Research. "Having access to an oral medication will be a beneficial option for many of these women coping with extreme, and sometimes life-threatening, feelings."

As with other forms of depression, PPD is characterized by sadness and/or loss of interest in activities that one used to enjoy and a decreased ability to feel pleasure. It can present with symptoms such as cognitive impairment, feelings of sadness or inadequacy, loss of energy or suicidal ideation.

Virtual Listening Sessions Set for PA Master Plan for Older Adults

The Department of Aging will host a series of virtual listening sessions during the month of August to discuss and gather input on Pennsylvania's Master Plan for Older Adults – a 10-year strategic plan designed to help transform the infrastructure and coordination of services for older residents.

During the virtual listening sessions, the department will present an overview of the plan with a concentration on AARP's 8 Domains of Livability for Age-Friendly Communities on the following dates:

- Tuesday, Aug. 8, 3-4:30 p.m.
- Thursday, Aug. 17, 3-4:30 p.m.
- Tuesday, Aug. 22, 10-11:30 a.m.
- Friday, Aug. 25, 8:30-10 a.m.

Walking in Historical Waters

Saturday, August 26 at 2:00pm to 3:30pm

Walk IN the Bushkill Creek. Discover how early settlers manipulated the land and water to harness the flow of the creek to power different mechanisms. Gain a different perspective as you discover remnant land use clues from the past. Late-August is a great time to walk creeks because the water is not as high as is during other months, and it is still warm enough to feel refreshed as the rippling water grazes your ankles. This program is not appropriate for children under 8 years old or for those who find it difficult to maneuver through uneven, slippery terrain. Hiking poles will be provided along with boots, waders, and sneakers of a limited size assortment. We recommend wearing water shoes, wading boots, or old sneakers. Open toed shoes, sandals, or crocs are not appropriate for this activity. Registration is required.<https://events.dcnr.pa.gov/search/events?order=date&search=jacobsburg>

Volunteer Event: Lose the Loosestrife

Historical Maps Program Planned Heritage Center

The Slate Belt Heritage Center will hold their monthly historic program on Thursday, August 10th @ 7:00 PM. Speaker for the evening will be Mr. Joel Hoffner. Join Mr. Hoffner as he introduces the new Lehigh Valley Historical Maps Consortium (LVHNC) website that accesses the map inventory, discusses a selection of maps that are particularly fascinating and reviews the progress of an early schoolhouse mapping project here in the Slate Belt and entire Northampton County.

Genealogy and local history researchers sometimes overlook the treasure trove of information contained on maps and other geographical and visual image documents. The (LVHNC) was founded to create an inventory of these types of documents available to the public at twenty-two regional institutions. Mr. Hoffner is a Lehigh Valley native who has cataloged collections at the Northampton County Historical and Genealogical Society, National Museum of Industrial History, Moravian Archives, Moravian Historical Society and Hunter Martin Museum in Lower Mt. Bethel Twsp.

He has published four books mapping the tracts of land occupied by the early Warrantees and Patentees of ten of the townships of Northampton County. The event is free and open to the public. The Heritage Center is located at 30 North 1st Street, Bangor, Pa. Contact Karen Brewer @ 484-894-5661 for additional information.

Wind Gap Community Pharmacy presents

"Stuff The Bus"

A bus will be located in the parking lot of our pharmacy for the community to bring donations to "stuff the bus". The donations will then be distributed throughout the local school districts to help out multiple families with school supplies. Teachers all over the country spend their own money on supplies to help the kids whose family can't afford it. Therefore, we would like to give back to the teachers who give their all to their kids as they deserve some recognition for doing so.

List of supplies needed (but not limited to):

- | | |
|----------------------|------------------------|
| Backpacks | Glue sticks |
| #2 pencils | Bottle of white glue |
| Pens (black or blue) | Calculator |
| Loose leaf paper | Agenda |
| 3 ring binders (lin) | Scissors |
| Subject dividers | Pencil case |
| Pocket folders | Tissues |
| Erasers | 1 subject notebooks |
| Crayons | Disinfectant wipes |
| Highlighters | Rulers |
| Sharpies | Book covers |
| Paper clips | Expo dry erase markers |
| Staples | Lamination pouches |
| Tape | Post-it notes |

If any businesses are interested in donating towards our "Stuff the Bus" event please contact us at the number or email below.

The bus will be here for a few days to make it easier for everyone to attend. We are able to accept donations before the 5th of August should you not be able to attend our event.

How This Mom Lost Half Her Body Weight

“My Health Is More Important Than How I Look In A Swimsuit.”

By Emma Dunn via SWNS

A mom ditched her daily three-course dinners to lose half her body weight – and is now swallowed by her wedding dress.

Jennifer Brown, 41, says she has always struggled with her weight and tipped the scales a 342 lbs and wore a U.S. size 24 at her biggest.

After being diagnosed with gestational diabetes when she was pregnant she decided she needed to make a change.

But she struggled to ditch her regular Mcdonald’s lunches and three course dinners until a health check up revealed high blood sugar levels.

She kept a food diary and cut out fizzy drinks and large portions and lost 89lbs. She then started taking weight loss drug Mounjaro - also known as Tirzepatide - to help her shift the extra pounds.

Now a slender 175 lbs and a US size 10, Jennifer’s wedding dress dwarfs her.

Jennifer, abstractor, from Des Moines, Iowa, said: “I’ve lost an entire person from my body.

“I’ve tired on tops that barely fit me before – now they are like a dress on me.

“I can’t believe that I’m here.

“I have a couple of core memories on my wedding day when I looked at my reflection and said out loud to myself how beautiful I felt.

“And that’s all that matters. But I am healthier now.

“My health is more important than how I look in a swimsuit.”

Jennifer feared she might not be able to look after her son, Maddox, nine and step-daughter, Cameron, 21, after she was told she had high blood sugars in 2019.

Her husband, Jeff, 46, a shift supervisor at an ethanol refinery, had a heart attack aged 41 which gave Jennifer another boost to make a change.

The mom had often been coming home to a meal of steak, potatoes, salad with ranch dressing, bread and ice cream but switched this to healthy meals such as a pork chop and vegetables.

Jennifer said: “I was a binge eater.

“I would eat out of boredom or emotionally.

“I never felt the feeling of fullness or satisfaction.

“I could go to a restaurant and eat an appetizer, main, desert and still be able to have something later.

“I basically had a three course meal every dinner.”

She lost 89lbs by learning to eat healthy and started walking as much as she could but struggled to shift any more weight.

Jennifer turned to the weight loss drug Mounjaro which has helped her slim down to 175lbs.

She said: “I’ve never been a size 10 – even in middle school.

“I got on a plane and I didn’t have to worry about asking for a seat belt extender.”

Jennifer has also taken up running as part of her daily workouts and can now run 5k.

She said: “I can run miles.

“I can climb mountains.

“I get to play catch with my son and be present in his life.

“I’m showing him it matter to take care of yourself.”

Jennifer doesn’t deprive herself of a sweet treat when she is craving it but will get a smaller pot of ice cream instead of her previous order – a hot fudge sundae, with brownie and cherries on top.

She said: “I try to keep really balanced.”

Jennifer said Jeff has been her “biggest supporter” throughout her journey and she has 10lbs left to lose before she is at her goal weight.

Meet The Woman Who Has 1,000 Barbie Dolls And Loved The New Movie

By Douglas Whitbread via SWNS

A Barbie fanatic who has 1,000 of the dolls in her collection “absolutely loved” the new film.

Clare Rawling, 42, saw a pre-release screening that left her in tears with its “lovely touches” and references to the doll’s vintage era.

The mom has forked out thousands of dollars on dolls and accessories spanning six decades.

She also boasts a brilliant collection of outfits, props and sets which she plays with by arranging them in scenarios and taking pictures for social media.

Clare, who saw the film on Monday with a friend in London, praised Margot Robbie and Ryan Reynolds’ real-life performances of Barbie and Ken as “spot on.”

And she said fans should be ready for a few “twists and turns” in the movie, which left her feeling emotional about her love for the “plastic fantastic” icon.

Clare Rawling has decided to buy back the Barbies she had as a child early last year as the pandemic hit. (SWNS)

“I absolutely love it. As a fan of Barbie, it spoke to me massively. There were references that related back to the vintage Barbies that I collect,” she said.

“I didn’t really have any preconceptions going into it. But as a fan, there were certainly lots of really lovely touches.

“It was very emotional in parts. I didn’t expect that – and it made me cry. There are definitely a few twists and turns.

“I’m a huge Ryan Gosling fan, but I didn’t anticipate what I got from him. He was spot on. Margot Robbie did incredibly well as Barbie. She’s beautiful.”

Full-time carer Clare also revealed she had already snagged some of the new dolls, released alongside the film, for her huge collection.

“I have a lot of friends who send me gifts, it’s a huge part of the community. My collection will never end, and I got gifted three of the new Barbies,” she said.

“They’ve just released a new wave for the movie. Mattel must be making an absolute fortune!”

Clare Rawling and her Barbie dolls at the pre-release screen of the Barbie movie.

Clare, from Blackpool, said her fascination with Barbie started when she was a child and her obsession was so intense that her dad converted into playspace for her.

“I remember being massively into Barbie from around age seven to 11, I loved them so much,” she said.

“I enjoyed the aesthetics, they were so pretty, and really loved all the accessories. I have lots of lovely Barbie memories.

“I would have kept playing with them but girls were being mean to me at school.”

Clare said she gave her mom permission to sell her original collection when she moved out because she didn’t want to take them all with her. And she didn’t pay much thought to her favorite childhood pastime until February 2021 when she saw one of her other treasured possessions for sale on eBay.

Her husband Colin, 58, bought her the toy, an Oh Penny doll - which then set Clare’s mind racing about how else she might be able to roll back the years.

“I turned 40 and we couldn’t go out because of the restrictions so I said, ‘I know, I’m 40 but can I have everything Barbie?,’” she said.

“I asked for everything to be pink and for a doll’s house as my present.”

Clare jumped in at the deep end by accumulating a staggering 70 dolls in just five months, and now has around 1000 in her possession.

“I have never had a connection with anything like this before, you think it’s just Barbie but it’s a bit of a rabbit hole when you get into it,” she said.

“Everything you can get in real life, you can get in Barbie too. It’s amazing.”

Working Moms Reveal Most Annoying Things Colleagues Say

By Mustafa Mirreh via SWNS

Working moms are on a mission to reduce the number of times they hear comments from colleagues like “she’s only part time,” “I forgot you leave early” and “I wish I could have Fridays off.”

A study, of 1,000 employed moms, revealed the common remarks they face in the workplace including, “you look tired,” “enjoy the rest of your week off” and “can’t your partner do any of the childcare?” But 55 percent are determined to change workplace lingo and get more recognition in the office.

And while 38 percent feel their work provides a great support network, 29 percent wish they heard more supportive phrases like “you’re doing a brilliant job,” “thanks for all your work this week” and “your children come first” more often.

However, 63 percent believe their colleagues mean no harm when making such comments.

While 26 percent admitted a co-worker has corrected themselves midway through saying something that could be perceived as ill-informed to working parents.

The research was commissioned by MALTESERS, to launch its #MotherLover campaign which aims to help lighten the load for working moms and encourage those around them to support where they can.

It has also partnered with women’s online community Peanut to create the “Work & Motherhood” content hub, providing actionable tips, tools and real-life advice around the challenges working mothers face.

Leah Dyckes, brand director at MALTESERS, said: “It’s hard for working mums; society tells them they can ‘have it all’, but the reality is often very different.

“There are so many challenges, and it can be a real struggle to make it work – and too often the expectations and structures at work and home aren’t changing quickly enough.

‘Through the #MotherLover campaign and meaningful partnership with Peanut, which directly creates spaces for mums every day, we can help shift this dynamic by asking everyone around women to step up, to show empathy, and do what they can as allies to lighten their load.”

The research also revealed moms’ top struggles when balancing their job as an employee and parent include fatigue and burnout (41 percent), emotional stress (32 percent), and childcare arrangements (30 percent).

While changing workdays due to child sickness (23 percent), morning preparations (17 percent) and school commitments (11 percent) were among the most stressful things for working parents.

And 82 percent said their employer is supportive of them when it comes to routine changes, such as childcare or working from home.

Top 10 Things Working Moms Would Like To Hear Less In The Workplace:

- You look tired
- She’s only part time
- I forgot you leave early
- Wish I could have Friday off
- I bet it feels like a break coming into the office
- I could never do that
- Enjoy the rest of the week off
- Must be nice to get a sleep-in on [days they aren’t in work)

Historic Poster On Car Window Tells Important Story About World War II

An 80-year-old poster on the window of a Dodge Car, circa 1942, on display at the Jacktown Summer Show held this past weekend tells a story about gasoline conservation during World War II.

This poster was designed by the American government for their World War II campaigns. The poster encourages people to use car share and encourages them to make direct inquiries at the ‘Transportation Center.’ The design depicts Hitler “taking a back seat” riding in a car while saluting.

During World War II, anti-Nazi propaganda was used to help the United States during the war. Some specifically, to persuade Americans to conserve resources so they could be utilized in war. One propaganda poster states, “When you ride ALONE you ride with Hitler! Join a Car-Sharing Club TODAY!” It shows a picture of a man driving a car, and an outline of Hitler in the passenger seat. Weimer Pursell created it in 1943 to help conserve oil.

During this time, many people found the ability to drive to be free and independent, so having this freedom taken away most likely angered many Americans. The reality of it was, the government just wanted people to change the way they drive in order to help the war effort, by rationing gasoline. This included a speed limit and car sharing. It did influence the driving culture at the time as it put a halt to the popularity of cars. Propaganda convinced Americans that if they did not ration gasoline, they were siding with Hitler.

The “Ride with Hitler” propaganda poster shows that during this period it was important for American citizens to work together to support the US military because otherwise they would be supporting Hitler.

Controlling Asthma When Air Quality is Bad

The American Lung Association Offers Important Insights

1. Outdoor Air Pollution

While outdoor air pollution can make breathing more difficult for everyone, it's particularly harmful to those with asthma, causing symptoms and increased need for medical attention, and to children, whose lungs are still growing and who breathe in more air per pound than adults. Children with asthma can be especially vulnerable to experiencing negative health effects caused by air pollution.

2.. Outdoor Air Pollution

The effects of climate change increase air pollutants like ozone, particle pollution, pollens, molds from increased rainfall and floods and smoke from wildfires. As temperatures increase, warmer air helps to form ground-level ozone pollution, also known as smog, a powerful air pollutant. Smog acts like a sunburn on your lungs and may trigger an asthma attack.

Before doing any activities outside, check the pollution level in your area by visiting Airnow.gov. When the air is bad, limit the time you and family members spend outdoors and try to move outdoor activities inside.

3. Climate Change

In some areas of the country, climate change is increasing the frequency and intensity of wildfires, and extending wildfire season. Wildfires produce smoke that contains particle pollution, consisting of dangerous particles tiny enough to travel deep into the lungs and sometimes even into the bloodstream. Particle pollution can cause asthma attacks, heart attacks, lung cancer and early death. But you don't need to live in an area prone to wildfire to be impacted. Winds can carry these particles for thousands of miles, meaning many people may have an unknown exposure. Preparation is key to protecting yourself and family. Check out American Lung Association's resources, which includes information about using N-95 masks for protection and creating a clean room inside your home. Visit lung.org/clean-air/emergencies-and-natural-disasters/wildfires to learn more.

4. Taking Action

Did you know you can reduce your own contribution to air pollution and climate change? Prioritize walking, biking and public transit over diesel or gasoline-powered vehicles. Conserve electricity and purchase your power from clean, non-combustion sources if you can. Don't burn leaves or trash and avoid burning wood whenever possible. Additionally, when looking for a place to live or upgrading your home, look for efficient, zero-emission appliances like induction stoves or heat pumps. You may even be able to take advantage of tax incentives for making these upgrades. (State Point)
