Some People Don't Take The Covid 19 Crisis Seriously

by Jessica Grose New York Times

When I spoke to Dr. Stephanie Whitener, 41, an anesthesia critical care physician and mother of two, the parent-teacher organization at her son's elementary school was planning an in-person happy hour for teachers. Though they did end up canceling the happy hour, "it feels like I live in two different realities," she said, one where people take the virus seriously, and another where they don't. That dichotomy can make the emotional and psychological toll of treating Covid-19 patients even harder to bear.

As this strange and difficult year draws to a close, I wanted to highlight the experiences of parents who are medical workers — and thank them for their service. Like so many other essential workers, they have put their physical and mental well-being on the line in 2020 to do their jobs. These frontline workers are at greater risk for burnout and PTSD than the general population. Some have been separated from their children for weeks at a time, communicating only on Zoom.

Library's Foreign Language Vocabulary Builder

The Bangor Public Library announces that it has added LingoLITE to its online reference offerings which helps users learn basic words and phrases in 30 languages using interactive native speaker videos.

"Foreign language training and references are very popular at the library, but in the past, we've never been able to offer one source for learning so many languages using such an interactive video format, so we're very excited to offer this database to our patrons," says Kathleen Lynch, Director at Bangor Public Library.

LingoLITE is a vocabulary builder and contains thousands of native speaker video clips in 30 languages including Spanish, French, Italian, German, Chinese, Japanese, Chinese, Farsi, Hindi, German, Swahili, Thai, and 18 others.

Anyone can access LingoLITE using the library's computers, or from anywhere in the world from the library's portal at www.bangorlibrary.org with their library card.

LingoLITE was designed anyone who wants to learn basic terms and phrases in a new language. The resource has glossaries for greetings, introductions, food, transportation, relations, numbers, and more.

This is an example of the Library's mission to increase its coverage of topics that are of interest to its diverse population of patrons young and old.

State Food Assistance

Pennsylvania State officials have encouraged all Pennsylvania residents to take full advantage of all food assistance programs, if needed, over the holiday season.

"Pennsylvania's food assistance programs were built for times like these and no one should be too shy to take advantage of what they have to offer," said Russell Redding, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

But those assets haven't stopped the covid-19 pandemic from destabilizing personal finances and causing heightened food insecurity for millions of residents. Compared to 2018, when roughly 11% of adults in Pennsylvania were food insecure, Redding said 15.5% experience the issue this year.

The difference is even starker when it comes to children in the state. In 2018, 15% children experienced food insecurity. That number has climbed to 24% in 2020.

Local food pantries saw greater demand especially early in the pandemic and through the summer, with miles-long lines at each weekly distribution and millions of pounds of food provided.

"Food insecurity was a problem for millions of Americans before March 2020," said Teresa Miller, secretary of the Department of Human Services.

CDC Expands the Definition of 'Close Contact'

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention released new guidelines on Wednesday regarding what counts as "close contact" with someone who has COVID-19.

The expanded definition includes brief but repeated exposure to others with the virus that adds up to 15 minutes over a 24-hour period. Previously, the CDC defined close contact as spending 15 consecutive minutes or more within six feet of someone with COVID-19.

This makes mask-wearing even more important for preventing transmission

The first day of astronomical winter in the Northern Hemisphere is marked by the winter solstice, which occurs on Monday, December 22, 2020, at 5:02 A.M. EST.

For the northern half of Earth (the Northern Hemisphere), the winter solstice occurs annually on December 21 or 22. (For the Southern Hemisphere, the winter solstice occurs on June 20 or 21.)

Day of Least Light

Winter solstice is a day with the fewest hours of sunlight in the year, making it the "shortest day." Actually, sunrise continues to occur later each day. Today's sunrise is 7:22, December 31 is 7:25. The extra light results from later sunsets. Today's sunset is 4:38pm, December 31 is 4:45. giving us 4 minutes of more light. By January 10, sunrise finally begins earlier as the length of day extends to 13 minutes, 27 seconds.

Meteorological Winter

Meteorological winter (in the Northern Hemisphere) is the period from Dec. 1 through Feb. 29

Meteorologists define "winter" as the three coldest months of the year: December, January, and February, which seems to define the actual meaning of winter.

Benefits of Winter

Winter is good for the world around us. Many plants need shorter days and low temperatures to become dormant. This way plants can store up energy for new growth. If a fruit tree doesn't have enough chilling time, it will produce fewer, weaker buds.

Snow also acts as a giant water reservoir. Without it, there could be water shortages.

Grants Save Money and Reduce Pollution

Harrisburg, PA – Grant funding for energy efficiency and pollution prevention projects for small business owners and farmers is still available from the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) through the Small Business Advantage Grant program.

“This grant program was created with small businesses and farmers in mind. There are tremendous monetary savings available to Pennsylvania’s small business owners by installing energy-efficient equipment, such as boilers, LED lighting, and Energy Star certified heating, ventilation, and air conditioning systems,” said DEP Secretary Patrick McDonnell. “Pennsylvania farmers can also benefit by using these funds to undertake projects which will divert sediment and nutrient runoff from our waterways.”

Pennsylvania farmers and other small business owners with 100 or fewer full-time employees are eligible for the grants. Projects must save the business a minimum of $500 and 25 percent annually in energy consumption or pollution related expenses. Natural resource protection projects are exempt from the minimums; however, the projects must be able to quantify sediment and nutrient reductions into nearby waterways.

Businesses can apply for 50 percent matching funds for equipment or materials, up to $7,000, when adopting energy-efficient or pollution prevention equipment or processes. Applications are considered on a first come, first served basis, and will be accepted until fiscal year 2020-21 funds are exhausted, or Monday, April 12, 2021, whichever occurs first.

The complete grant application package is available by visiting the DEP Small Business Ombudsman’s Office’s site.

To contact the Small Business Ombudsman’s Office, call 717-772-5160 or email raepadvantagegrant@pa.gov.

The Time Has Come For National Mask Mandates

Some people wear eye-catching colorful neck gaiters. They think that they are just more comfortable to wear than a face mask.

More stylish? Perhaps. More comfortable? Maybe. But as effective? Not necessarily.

With more states requiring face coverings indoors to prevent the spread of COVID-19, gaiters and bandannas have become popular accessories, particularly among college students and other young adults.

But tests show those hipper face coverings are not as effective as surgical or cloth face masks. Bandannas, like plastic face shields, allow the virus to escape out the bottom in aerosolized particles that can hang in the air for hours. And gaiters are often made of such thin material that they don't trap as much virus as cloth masks.

Masks are the easiest — and cheapest — way to save U.S. lives. The time has come for a national mask mandate.

It's time to trust science rather than a bunch of political conspiracy theories. If we all work together, we all can go back to work, enjoy going out to eat, kids can go to school, play sports and engage in other activities.

Home Heating Assistance

LIHEAP is a federally funded program that helps individuals and families pay their heating bills through home heating energy assistance grants. It also provides crisis grants to help in the event of an emergency or if a resident is in danger of losing his or her heat due to broken equipment, lack of fuel or termination of utility service.

The income eligibility guidelines for LIHEAP are set at 150% of the federal poverty income level. For example, the income limit for an individual is $18,735; for a couple, the limit is $25,365; and for a family of four, it is $38,625. Residents may apply for LIHEAP online or by contacting the County Assistance Office in their county of residence.

Senate Bills Strengthen PA.Mental Health Coverage

The State Senate approved legislation to ensure that mental health and substance use disorders receive the same level of care as other health issues, according to Senator Mario Scavello (R-40).

House Bill 1696 and House Bill 1439 would strengthen enforcement of the federal Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 by ensuring insurance plans provide mental health care that is similar to coverage for other diseases and illnesses. The bills also require insurers annually attest to steps they have taken to comply with the law.

The current system of enforcement relies on addressing complaints from consumers who may not know about the law or fully understand the services that are included in their health plan. The package of bills would ensure all insurers offer customers the level of care and services that are required by law.

“This legislation solidifies the Insurance Department’s role in regulating insurer compliance with mental health parity and requires insurers to legally attest to compliance efforts and makes certain public disclosures of those efforts. It’s a second layer of accountability,” Scavello said. “Together, these bills will establish Pennsylvania as a leader in the regulation of insurer compliance with federal mental health parity.”

The measures will be sent to the governor to be signed into law.

Pennsylvania Upgrades COVID 19 Protocols

Traveler Testing

Dr. Levine issued an order requiring anyone who visits from another state to have a negative COVID-19 test within 72 hours prior to entering the commonwealth.

If someone cannot get a test or chooses not to, they must quarantine for 14 days upon arrival in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvanians visiting other states are required to have a negative COVID-19 test within 72 hours prior to their return to the commonwealth or to quarantine for 14 days upon return to Pennsylvania.

This order, which takes effect on Friday, November 20, does not apply to people who commute to and from another state for work or medical treatment.

Strengthened Masking Order

Masks are required to be worn indoors and outdoors if you are away from your home.

When outdoors, a mask must be worn if you are not able to remain physically distant (at least 6 feet away) from someone not in your household the entire time you are outdoors.

When indoors, masks will now be required even if you are physically distant from members not in your household. This means that even if you are able to be 6 feet apart, you will need to wear a mask while inside if with people other than members of your household.

This order applies to every indoor facility, including homes, retail establishments, gyms, doctors' offices, public transportation, and anywhere food is prepared, packaged or served.

Colleges and Universities

The departments of Health and Education issued recommendations for colleges and universities to implement a testing plan for when students return to campus following the holidays. These recommendations include establishing routine protocols for testing.

Colleges and universities should have adequate capacity for isolation and quarantine and should be prepared to enforce violations of established policies such as mask wearing and physical distancing.

Wearing Masks Protects You and Others

Wearing a mask protects the wearer, and not just other people, from the coronavirus, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention emphasized in an updated scientific brief issued Tuesday. And the protective benefits of masks are stronger the more people wear masks consistently and correctly, the agency says.

When the CDC first recommended that Americans wear cloth face coverings back in April, it cited evidence that the coronavirus could be transmitted by asymptomatic people who might not be aware of their infectiousness – a group estimated to account for more than 50% of transmissions.

The agency says masks block virus-laden particles emitted should by an infected person.

In a report updated Tuesday, the CDC says that is still the primary intention of wearing masks. But it also cites growing evidence that even cloth masks can also reduce the amount of infectious droplets inhaled by the wearer.

“This messaging is key to increase adherence and interest in mask wearing. I am thrilled!” Dr. Monica Gandhi, an infectious disease physician with the University of California, San Francisco, said in a tweet Tuesday.

Ghandi argued in a recently published paper that wearing masks can reduce the severity of illness with COVID-19, even if the wearer does become infected.

Growing Body Of Evidence Suggests Masks Protect Those Wearing Them, Too

As for which mask to choose? The CDC notes that when it comes to cloth masks, multiple layers made of higher thread counts do a better job of protecting the wearer than single layers of cloth with lower thread counts.

How Rapid-Result Covid Testing Can Save Lives.

by David Leonhardt New York Times

Reducing the spread of Covid-19 over the next several months — while vaccines are being distributed — has the potential to save more than 100,000 American lives, as I explained earlier. So how can we reduce the spread?

Some of the ways are well-known: consistent messages from national leaders; mask wearing; hand washing; and fewer indoor gatherings. But there is one other promising strategy, many experts believe:

Much more testing, especially tests that return results almost immediately, rather than a day or two later.

These tests, often known as antigen tests, could sharply cut the number of new infections by causing many more people who have the virus to enter quarantine. Germany and Italy have used antigen tests recently to help greatly reduce new cases. Several U.S. colleges have also used blanket testing — including slower-turnaround tests — to minimize outbreaks.

at N.Y.U., told me. As Jennifer Nuzzo, a Johns Hopkins epidemiologist, said, “It can make a big difference, provided it’s coupled with other things.”

I went through it myself this week. I called several pharmacies and clinics in my areas until I found one offering a test to anybody who wanted one, and I drove there one one afternoon.

PAHS Junior Arica Wieder Sews and Donates 350+ Masks

by Larry Cory

Pen Argyl High School junior Arica Wieder recently made over 350 masks for people to wear as protection from the Coronavirus.

"I first made them for my mom, sister and I to keep us safe when we went to the store," Arica said. "Then I began making them for other family members and friends to keep them safe."

Since then, she has been recognized by the Slate Belt Regional Police Department by posting her picture on their Facebook page for donating 100 homemade face masks.

She also has donated over 350 masks to various places such as Lehigh Valley Pocono Hospital, Slate Belt Health & Rehabilitation Center, Lehigh County coroner, food bank, and more.

She already had learned to sew from her Grammy Wanda. In ninth grade she bought a sewing machine to make a skirt, hair crunches and a replica civil war nurses uniform for her ninth-grade honors history project.

Although past experience was a huge help in learning to make masks she encountered some problems.

"I had trouble finding enough fabric, elastic, and thread for my mom to buy so I could donate in large amounts," she said. "I started using the loops to the loom maker I had until I got elastic."

Once her system was up and running she was able to make a mask in 20-30 minutes, which was an improvement over the 45 minutes needed on her first try.

"I am beyond honored by what Arica is and has been doing," said her mother, Amanda. "She truly has a caring, sweet old soul. She always puts others feelings and needs first. I am so happy our surrounding community is able to benefit and see her generosity."

Diet Can Affect How Well You Sleep

With the coronavirus pandemic, school and work disruptions and a contentious election season contributing to countless sleepless nights, sleep experts have encouraged people to adopt a variety of measures to overcome their stress-related insomnia. Among their recommendations: engage in regular exercise, establish a nightly bedtime routine and cut back on screen time and social media.

But many people may be overlooking another important factor in poor sleep: diet. A growing body of research suggests that the foods you eat can affect how well you sleep, and your sleep patterns can affect your dietary choices.

Researchers have found that eating a diet that is high in sugar, saturated fat and processed carbohydrates can disrupt your sleep, while eating more plants, fiber and foods rich in unsaturated fat — such as nuts, olive oil, fish and avocados — seems to have the opposite effect, helping to promote sound sleep.

They, however, cannot explain, for example, whether poor diet precedes and leads to poor sleep, or the reverse.

Tips to avoid getting and spreading COVID-19

In public:

Wear a mask in public settings, including on public transportation and in transportation hubs such as airports and stations.

Stay at least 6 feet (about 2 arms' length) from anyone who is not from your household.

Bathrooms and rest stops:

Wash your hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds after using the bathroom and after you have been in a public place.

If soap and water are not available, use a hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol. Cover all surfaces of your hands and rub them together until they feel dry.

Getting gas:

Use disinfecting wipes on handles and buttons at the gas pumps before you touch them (if available).

After fueling, use a hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol. When you get to your destination, wash your hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds.

COVID Anxiety Grows Tips to Avoid Crisis

(StatePoint) Among mask mandates, social distancing, outspoken political views and personal challenges from the COVID-19 pandemic, there is a heightened risk for public spaces turning into places of conflict.

According to experts at the Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI), the global leader in de-escalation training for over 40 years, mentally preparing and practicing responses can best ensure non-confrontational experiences.

CPI has identified probable areas of conflict and how to best mitigate tension. They recommend embracing four simple techniques to prevent and reduce conflict:

1. Avoid judgment. Listen and focus on the feelings behind the message.
2. Don't take it personally. ATell yourself, "This may not be about the two of us; it may be about other issues in their life." Or repeat to yourself, "I'm going to be respectful. I'm going to be respectful."
3. Control your reactions. You can't control another person's behavior, but you can control how you react. Avoid using facial expressions, gestures and language that could make another person feel anxious or defensive.
4. Be prepared if you have to engage. Have a plan to acknowledge and redirect. Here are some things you could potentially say:

- "Yeah. This year has been difficult on everyone."
- "I can understand where you're coming from."
- "We'll all be glad when this pandemic is behind us."

More info: visit www.crisisprevention.com.

During a particularly tense time in our nation's history, having a few techniques at the ready can help you avoid conflict wherever you are.

St. Luke's Provides First Outpatient COVID-19 Drug

St. Luke's University Health Network has established one of Pennsylvania's first outpatient COVID-19 treatment programs – a monoclonal antibody infusion center at St. Luke's Easton Campus.

The Easton Campus infusion center offers patients bamlanivimab, an experimental drug developed by Eli Lilly that is similar to a product President Donald Trump received after contracting the virus last month.

A second infusion center is on track to open next week at St. Luke's Warren Campus in Phillipsburg, N.J.

Monoclonal antibodies block the virus' attachment and entry into human cells. Infusion has been found to be particularly effective in preventing the need for hospitalization in select, higher-risk patients including those who are 65 years of age or older and whose infection, doesn't require supplemental oxygen.

Patients who wish to be treated with bamlanivimab may schedule an appointment after receiving a prescription from a St. Luke's primary care physician or through a St. Luke's CareNow walk-in center or emergency room. Supplies, dictated by the state, could be subject to limitations.

Monoclonal antibody infusion is one part of St. Luke's two-pronged strategy for caring for COVID-19 patients at home.

316 Marketplace in Wind Gap Has Something For Everyone

The new Marketplace 316 in Wind Gap is impressive. It offers a place for Local Antiques and Collectables, Artisans, Resellers & Foods, only found in Wind Gap.

J's Royal Family, Unique Finds, Flay'd Meats, Candy Pickers, and Uncle Chuck's & Son's Furniture are just few of many vendors.

Despite the COVID 19 pandemic, Marketplace 316 opened July 4th to the delight of avid flea marketers.

The North Broadway location is a huge improvement over the former Wind Gap Flea Market. The new Flea Market appears to be twice the size it was a few years ago, allowing far more vendors to set up shop.

Although I'm not a weekend, flea market junkie, I occasionally enjoy going to Saylorsburg, Jake's on Route 100, Adamstown, PA and a place in Front Royal, Va. I'm happy to say that I am definitely adding Marketplace 316 to my list of favorites.

They are open Saturdays and Sundays from 8am to 4pm at 316 North Broadway, Wind Gap. Visit their website at www.marketplace-316.com.

Slate Belt Rising

Slate Belt Rising, a program of Community Action Committee of the Lehigh Valley (CACLV), is introducing a Commercial Lease Subsidy Program to attract new and expanding businesses to the Boroughs of Bangor, Pen Argyl, Portland, and Wind Gap. This program will provide businesses the support they need to get off the ground, helping to build more vibrant downtown areas that attract more businesses and the talent needed to build a competitive economy, thus creating a stronger and more resilient community.

"This will serve as an incentive for new businesses to open or other businesses to expand in the Boroughs of Bangor, Pen Argyl, Portland, and Wind Gap," said Stephen Reider, Director of Slate Belt Rising. "Our goals are to lower commercial vacancy rates, provide economic opportunity and create more vibrant business districts that are welcoming for residents and visitors alike."

The program will provide financial support to a minimum of five businesses during their first six months of operation. Selected businesses will receive 100% of rent payments (up to $1,500 monthly) for their first three months and 50% of rent payments (up to $750 monthly) for their next three months. The lease payments will be made for six consecutive months.

Slate Belt Rising anticipates that this will advance the economic viability of the Slate Belt through business development, job creation, and promotion of Slate Belt small businesses within and outside the community.

Any new business opening or moving into one of the boroughs or an existing business looking to open a second location within one of the boroughs may be eligible for the program. Applicants must be planning to lease between 500-5,000 square feet of first floor, market-rate office or retail space for a minimum 2-year term.

Applications are currently open and being accepted until February 12, 2021. For full guidelines and application, visit slatebeltrising.org.

Physical Therapy Legislation Improves Access

HARRISBURG – Legislation that will improve access to physical therapy in Pennsylvania was approved by the Senate on Wednesday and is set for enactment into law, according to Senator Mario Scavella (R-40).

House Bill 862 would allow Pennsylvania to enter a Physical Therapy Licensure Compact with other states, increasing access to physical therapy services by decreasing licensure barriers and permitting licensed physical therapists to work in multiple states or more easily relocate to Pennsylvania.

The Physical Therapy Compact Commission is the national administrative body whose membership consists of all states that have enacted the compact and are responsible for its oversight. In order to practice in Pennsylvania under the compact, physical therapists must:

- Have a valid physical therapist license with no board-imposed limitations in Pennsylvania.
- Have not had any adverse licensing actions against them within the past two years.
- Notify the commission that compact privileges are being sought.

Under House Bill 862, the compact becomes operative between Pennsylvania and other states through action of the governor. Sixteen states are currently part of the Physical Therapy Compact. Several states have enacted compact legislation and will begin to issue and accept compact privileges over the course of the next year.

State Will Receive Monoclonal Antibodies

Harrisburg, PA - Secretary of Health Dr. Rachel Levine today announced the federal government will be distributing monoclonal antibodies to healthcare systems throughout the commonwealth. Monoclonal antibodies are proteins built in a laboratory that mimic the immune system's ability to fight off harmful antigens, like the COVID-19 virus.

“The department will determine which healthcare systems receive allocations based upon county case counts,” Dr. Levine said. “Then, the federal government will distribute the antibodies to the respective healthcare systems to further help communities struggling with the spread of COVID-19. Monoclonal antibodies may provide short term protection from the SARS-CoV-2 virus for appropriate COVID-19 patients.”

The healthcare partners who receive the monoclonal antibodies will then ensure that patients who meet the criteria will be able to receive this treatment in a range of different distribution settings. Health care systems will determine eligibility for the antibodies based upon the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) emergency use authorization

The drug for the investigational monoclonal antibody therapy, bamlanivimab, for the treatment of mild-to-moderate COVID-19 in adult and pediatric patients is specifically directed against the spike protein of SARS-CoV-2, designed to block the virus's attachment and entry into human cells. Bamlanivimab is not authorized for the patients who are hospitalized or require oxygen therapy due to COVID-19.

Risk of Animals Spreading COVID 19 to Humans in Low

A small number of pets worldwide, including cats and dogs, have been infected with the virus that causes COVID-19, mostly after close contact with people with COVID-19.

Based on the limited information available to date, the risk of animals spreading COVID-19 to people is considered to be low.

Until we learn more about how this virus affects animals, treat pets as you would other human family members to protect them from a possible infection.

Because there is a risk that people with COVID-19 could spread the virus to animals, CDC recommends that pet owners limit their pet's interaction with people outside their household.

- Keep cats indoors when possible and do not let them roam freely outside.

- Walk dogs on a leash at least 6 feet (2 meters) away from others.
- Avoid public places where a large number of people gather.
- Do not put a mask on pets. Masks could harm your pet.

There is no evidence that the virus can spread to people from the skin, fur, or hair of pets. Do not wipe or bathe your pet with chemical disinfectants, alcohol, hydrogen peroxide, or other products, such as hand sanitizer, counter-cleaning wipes, or other industrial or surface cleaners. Talk to your veterinarian if you have questions about appropriate products for bathing or cleaning your pet

NOT EVERYONE WITH COVID-19 FEELS SICK

New report: 238 young adult U.S. service members on a naval aircraft carrier tested positive for a current or previous infection of COVID-19

1 out of 5 reported no symptoms

St. Luke's nurse Sonia Iparraguirre, RN, was the first to receive the COVID-19 vaccine at St. Luke's University Health Network Thursday.

St. Luke's nurse Sonia Iparraguirre, RN, was the first individual to receive the COVID-19 vaccine at St. Luke's University Health Network Thursday afternoon.

"I am so happy to be part of this momentous step to end the pandemic," Iparraguirre, of Bethlehem, said. "I want people in our community to know that the vaccine is safe, and that if they want it, they should get it. It protects their health and the health of our community."

Earlier this year, as St. Luke's University Health Network began preparing for the COVID-19 pandemic, its dedicated health care workers stepped to the forefront. Iparraguirre, who works on Priscilla Payne Hurd Pavilion 8, was literally on the front line as she admitted the first COVID-19 patient at St. Luke's University Hospital in Bethlehem.

Iparraguirre was recently honored for her contributions to St. Luke's pandemic mobilization and her commitment to the health of the community by the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce of the Greater Lehigh Valley during its annual gala. Streamed from SteelStacks in Bethlehem on October 8, the theme of the gala was "The Heroes Among Us."

"Sonia embraced this unknown challenge with true grace and professionalism," says Rebecca Boyer, BSN, RN, Patient Care Manager, Priscilla Payne Hurd Pavilion 8. "She not only played a vital role in providing quality patient care, she went above and beyond in providing the intangibles that played such a crucial and meaningful role during this uncertain time."

These intangibles, Boyer explains, included comforting patients on isolation, spending time to listen to patients crying in fear of the effects of COVID-19, and facilitating communication with these patients' family members.

"Sonia is an outstanding example of St. Luke's commitment to caring for COVID-19 patients and all those we serve in our community," says Janice Concilio, St. Luke's COVID-19 Incident Commander.

Eagle Scout Helps Preserve Minsi Fish Hatchery History

Completed in 1960, the Poliskiewicz Trout Hatchery was in operation for three years prior to the construction of Lake Minsi. The hatchery and surrounding area near the east side of Lake Minsi were condemned in 1963 in order to build the lake. The hatchery was under ownership and operation of Philip, Joseph, and Peter Poliskiewicz, three brothers, who lived on the property adjacent to the hatchery.

The fish, primarily Brook and Rainbow Trout, were sold for both stocking and food. Unfortunately, due to its location, the hatchery fish had many natural predators. These included snakes, raccoons, herons, and kingfishers.

The first section of the hatchery is the spring, where water flow was obtained. This provided a steady, clean freshwater source for the hatchery. The spring empties into a long raceway where the wooden gates that separated different aged fish are still visible. At the end of the raceway is a large holding pond, which at the time of operation, was circulated by a pump to keep the water fresh.

To your left was a short trail marked with yellow paint which follows along the spring, raceway, and holding pond. It is about a five to ten-minute walk and will bring you back to this location so that you can continue along the lake trail. As you walk along the trail you will see how the hatchery operated. Please be mindful of any wildlife you may encounter along the pathway and in the waterways, including the watercress that grows in the spring and the raceway. This project was updated and completed by Jackson F. Krei Troop 146, White Township, NJ. For his Eagle Scout service project.

The original kiosk and research were completed by Aaron Knecht, Troop 37, Portland, PA. For his Eagle Scout service project.

Jackson offers a Special thanks to Northampton County Parks, and Phil Poliskiewicz for providing information about the hatchery, and everyone else that was part of the project.

Coronavirus Variant May Spread 70% Faster

Just as vaccines begin to offer hope for a path out of the pandemic, officials in Britain this past weekend sounded an urgent alarm about what they called a highly contagious new variant of the coronavirus circulating in England.

Citing the rapid spread of the virus through London and surrounding areas, Prime Minister Boris Johnson imposed the country's most stringent lockdown since March.

But the estimate of greater transmissibility — British officials said the variant was as much as 70 percent more transmissible — is based on modeling and has not been confirmed in lab experiments, Dr. Cevik added.

Several experts urged caution, saying it would take years — not months — for the virus to evolve enough to render the current vaccines impotent.

“No one should worry that there is going to be a single catastrophic mutation that suddenly renders all immunity and antibodies useless,” Dr. Bloom said.

“It is going to be a process that occurs over the time scale of multiple years and requires the accumulation of multiple viral mutations,” he added. “It’s not going to be like an on-off switch.”

The scientific nuance mattered little to Britain's neighbors. Worried by the potential influx of travelers carrying the variant, the Netherlands said it would suspend flights from Britain from Sunday until Jan. 1.

How Vaccine Recipients Felt After COVID-19 Shots

Lehigh Valley, Pa. (Dec. 22, 2020) - Wondering how it feels the day after a COVID-19 vaccine? Since Thursday, Lehigh Valley Health Network has administered more than 1,000 vaccinations to front-line, high-risk workers and plans to vaccinate about 6,000 more in the coming days. Of those who received a vaccination, only three people reported side effects – one person had redness and swelling at the injection site, one had an itchy throat and the other had a fever. Symptoms for each person subsided quickly. Of the colleagues who had known severe allergies, no side effects were reported.

“Except for a sore arm at the injection site, much like how I felt when I got the flu shot, it is business as usual today,” said Jennifer Rovella, DO, LVPG Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine. “I feel great knowing that this is the beginning to the end of the pandemic.”

Chantal Branco, RN, LVHN Patient Care Services, the first person in the region and at LVHN to receive the Pfizer authorized vaccine had a similar reaction. “I’m feeling great today. My left arm is a little sore but nothing that is keeping me from my normal daily activities.”

Glenn Thompson, RN, LVHN Emergency Services, said that getting the shot didn’t limit him in any way. “About 24 hours after getting the vaccine, I have no issues besides a slightly sore arm at the injection site.”

Marcelo Gareca, MD, LVPG Infectious Diseases, even went a bit further in describing that he was not impacted by the vaccine.

Bangor Elks Donates to Portland Food Pantry

Bangor Elks Lodge #1106 in partnership with the Elks National Foundation recently provided a donation of $2000 to the Portland Food Pantry (PUMP) to assist with food and supplies needed to assist families through these struggling times.

Recently, the Elks Lodge presented a check for $2000 to members and volunteers of the Food Pantry. The Portland / Upper Mt. Bethel Food Pantry (PUMP) was founded by Sherma LaBarre Godshalk in 1994 as an outgrowth of her dedication to provide food to needy families. It continued under her direction for twenty-one years until she passed away in 2015. It was then under the direction of Sherman LaBarre (Sherma’s father), in her honor, until his passing in December of 2020. It continues with its many, hard working volunteers.

The Bangor Elks Lodge continues its commitment to the community operating the Borough Park Train and the Annual Halloween Parade.
