Pentagon Creating New Hordes Of Air, Land And Seaborne

By Mark Waghorn via SWNS

The Pentagon is planning a new “weapon of mass destruction” - hordes of air, land and seaborne drones.

It has been dubbed the “swarm of swarms” - and is raising ethical and security concerns.

The top secret strategy envisages automated, coordinated attacks by many types of unmanned machines.

Critics suggest management will be difficult - raising the prospect of lethal force without direct oversight.

Most details of the U.S. defense research agency DARPA’s project are classified.

But AMASS (Autonomous Multi-Domain Adaptive Swarms-of-Swarms) is described in federal contract documents seen by New Scientist.

The controversial plan involves thousands of small aerial, ground and underwater drones working together to destroy enemy defenses.

They will be equipped with missiles and tools including target identifying GPS and radar jammers. Bids for the $78 million contract closed on Friday, Feb. 10.

Warfare experts are alarmed. Zachary Kallenborn, a policy fellow at George Mason University in Virginia, said: “As the swarm grows in size, it’ll become virtually impossible for humans to manage the decisions.

“Autonomy and AI will be needed to make those decisions - with all the brittleness that entails.”

Kallenborn, an author on WMD terrorism and homeland security, told the magazine: “A massive drone swarm prone to errors would be a terrifying thing - a new weapon of mass destruction.”

It isn’t clear how AMASS will handle their independence, he said. It wouldn’t need human assistance on the ground.

The swarms could coordinate across an entire area of operation - such as a whole country.

Gregory Allen, director of the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington DC says the Pentagon has experimented with swarms of hundreds of drones.

But larger groups with land, air and sea components will introduce complexity and make communication more of an issue.

Kallenborn said: “In theory AMASS could be entirely non-lethal - carrying out jamming or other non-kinetic attacks in support of other platforms that actually destroy the defenses. I think that’s unlikely though.”

Allen is also dubious it could carry out its mission without using lethal force.

Low-cost drones have proved effective in the Ukraine conflict where they have destroyed tanks, swamped air defenses and damaged the power grid. But these have been individually controlled.

A control system will enable thousands of units - including drones, submarines and robot tanks - to communicate, exchange information and coordinate actions autonomously.

A DARPA spokesperson said the aim is to keep humans making key decisions - with drones waiting for permission to act if communications fail.

There would be people somewhere overseeing and able to step in if necessary.

Pen Argyl's Sokal Athletes Bringing Home the Gold

by Larry Cory

Recently, the Sokal Fitness and training center in Pen Argyl took a group to DeSales and Villanova University and came home with 10 gold medals, 10 silver medals and eight bronze medals.

"I was very proud of the kids that went," said Sokol director Erl Person. "We had 13 kids trained (and) for ten weeks in the fall for Special Olympics power-lifting, we had 11."

According to their website: "Sokol 5-Tool Fitness is a not-for-profit organization that operates a sport fitness and baseball/softball training facility. It is administered and maintained by the Sokol USA Lodge 410 Board of Directors and members. The goal is to provide quality strength/conditioning/agility training and baseball/softball skill development for our members and local baseball and softball organizations. The facility is also available for rent."

Person is currently training his group for their next competition,

"We're probably taking eight or ten kids to Parkland February 25th for high school, teenage high school and team championships," he said. "Probably two or three of those are going to be Special Olympics kids."

Sokal is not a fancy gym with all the glitz and glimmer of LA Fitness.

Sokal, however, on Robinson Avenue in Pen Argyl is about as basic as a gym can be, yet they get the job done.

"It's the way we train here is very simple," said Person. "We focus on a small number of functional movements. Squat, bench press. dead lift and press."

This a process that doesn't produce results overnight.

"We work on form technique first and foremost, then as they perfect that, we start adding weight." Person says.

"They don't need fancy. They just need to come in and they know that everyone here is on their side," Person stressed.

"We don't want them competing against one another. We want them competing against themselves" he added. "You know every kid has to do better than they did the last time they were here. That's all we're looking for. It's old school. It's very old school."

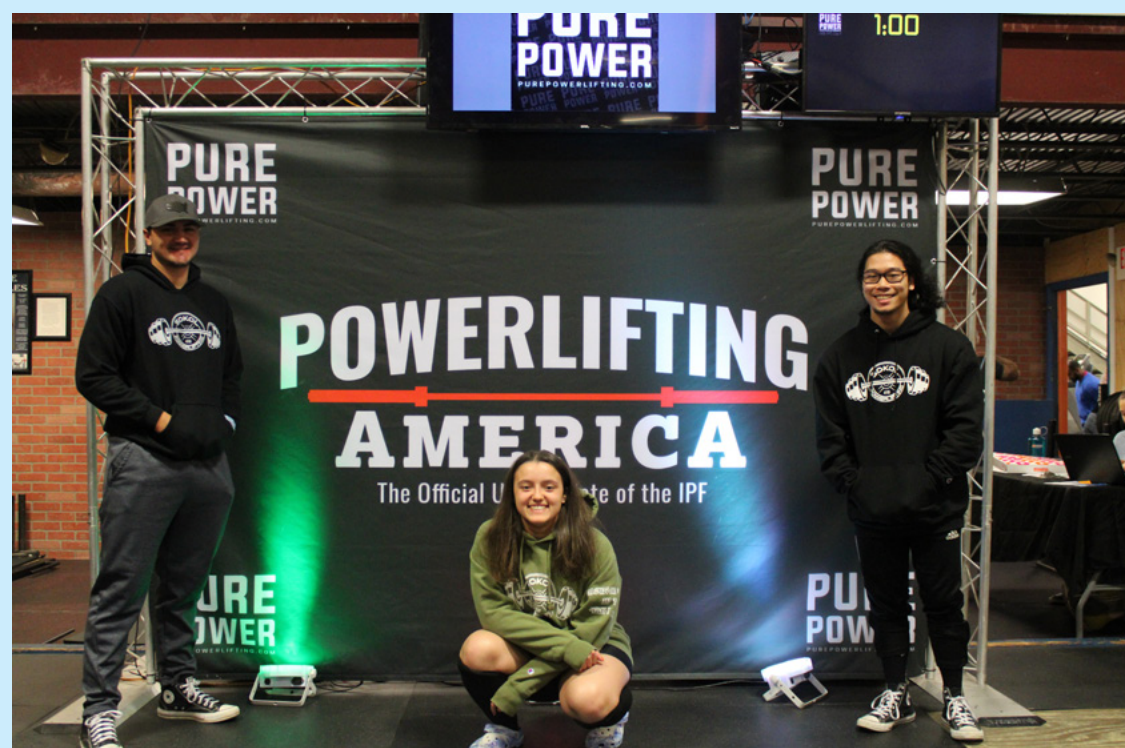

Person is no stranger to athletic training he got off to a good start playing football at Pen Argyl High School for Coach Roy Cortez.

Since then he has become a Certified personal trainer through the CSM and a certified power-lifting coach through Special Olympics. When he is not at the gym he works for the FAA as an Electronics technician.

NELSON'S RECORD SETTING 32 POINTS LEADS BANGOR TO 54-34 WIN

Record Setting Tuesday

Tuesday night was a night for records in the Slate Belt as Bangor's Avery Nelson set a girls single-game scoring record of 32 points vs Palisades. The sophomore also scored five three-pointers and was a perfect 7-7 from the free throw line.

According to information on the school's athletic website, Nelson broke the record of 31 points held by Helena Kline (1970,) Lori Dutt (1971), and Suzy DeFranco (1982)

In Pen Argyl, senior Jill Morro reached the 1,000-point plateau versus Moravian Academy. Going into the game she needed 25 points to reach the mark.

Unofficially, the last Green Knights to reach that level were Kirby Lutz in 2003. Collette Singer (1996) and Theresa Squarcia (1993)
