Men Consider Themselves Better At Saving Money Than Women: Poll

The Average Person Started Saving Money At Around 24 Years Old

by Talker Research

New research shows that one in five Americans would rate their ability to save money as “fair” or “poor.”

A survey of 2,000 employed men and women looked at the differences in how they save for the future and found that men are more likely than women to rate their money-saving abilities as higher than average (55% vs. 39%).

And, even though their confidence in their saving abilities varies, half also said they would take financial advice equally as seriously coming from a woman as a man.

Generally, people would be motivated to learn about their finances to secure their future (62%), maximize the value of the money they already have (60%) and not have to rely on someone else (54%).

Conducted by OnePoll for BOK Financial, the survey found that the average person started saving money at around 24 years old and learned how to best manage their finances from their parents as children (23%) and putting their skills to the test when they first started living on their own (22%).

And they’d advise others to start even earlier — from the first time they receive an allowance or monetary gifts as a child (32%) and once they have a job that produces income (24%).

However, only 21% of Americans said it’s a high priority for them to save money from each paycheck, with men making this a higher priority (59% vs. 44%).

Consequently, one in 11 respondents don’t feel financially secure for the future. Respondents estimate that 30% of their paycheck goes to bills and other required monthly expenses like rent or car insurance and half said their monthly expenses are even more costly than that (49%).

The average employed person claims to save about a quarter of their paycheck (26%), but more than one-third of respondents admitted they save less than this (36%).

Most Americans hold their savings in a savings account (66%) or checking account (54%), while the least popular options include certificates of deposit (CDs) (38%) or an investment account that holds stocks and bonds (32%).

“Which savings vehicle is right for you depends on your objective,” said Kimberly Bridges, director of financial planning at BOK Financial. “For example, for short-term goals, like putting money away for a down payment, a savings or money-market account might work best. A financial planner offer suggestions based on your complete financial picture.”

Sixty-three percent of respondents have an “emergency fund” (a reserved amount of money to be used in times when regular income is disrupted or decreased), with men being more likely to have one (69% vs. 57%).

Those with an emergency fund estimate that they have about five months’ worth of income there.

NELSON'S RECORD SETTING 32 POINTS LEADS BANGOR TO 54-34 WIN

Record Setting Tuesday

Tuesday night was a night for records in the Slate Belt as Bangor's Avery Nelson set a girls single-game scoring record of 32 points vs Palisades. The sophomore also scored five three-pointers and was a perfect 7-7 from the free throw line.

According to information on the school's athletic website, Nelson broke the record of 31 points held by Helena Kline (1970,) Lori Dutt (1971), and Suzy DeFranco (1982)

In Pen Argyl, senior Jill Morro reached the 1,000-point plateau versus Moravian Academy. Going into the game she needed 25 points to reach the mark.

Unofficially, the last Green Knights to reach that level were Kirby Lutz in 2003. Collette Singer (1996) and Theresa Squarcia (1993)

PLAY4KAY - WOMEN FIGHTING CANCER

The pink signs people are holding had a name of someone affected by cancer.

Play4Kay Honors Coach Kay Yow.

Through Play4Kay, Coach Kay Yow saw a way to bring communities together and honor cancer warriors in the fight against all cancers affecting women. Uniting players, coaches, officials, and fans to do something for the greater good that far exceeds wins and losses in competition, the Play4Kay initiative is their largest fundraiser and plays a major role in their success.

Sandra Kay Yow (March 14, 1942 – January 24, 2009) was the head coach of the NC State Wolfpack women's basketball team from 1975 to 2009. A member of the Naismith Hall of Fame, she had more than 700 career wins.

She also coached the U.S. women's basketball team to an Olympic gold medal in 1988 despite having been diagnosed with breast cancer in 1987. In 2000, Yow was inducted into the Women's Basketball Hall of Fame. In 2009, she was inducted into the FIBA Hall of Fame.

In April 2010, CollegeInsider.com created a new award called the Kay Yow National Coach of the Year Award in her honor. It will be presented annually to the women's college basketball head coach who displays great personal character on and off the court.

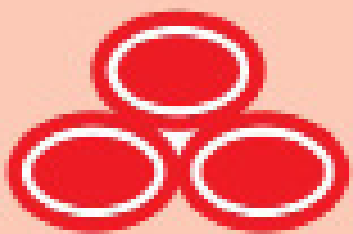

Play4Kay is a program that schools participate in for raising cancer awareness. Their website: <https://kayyow.com/play4kay/>

Locally, Jen Mutchler and Ty Lutz (Right) represent the organizations they've made for fighting cancer. Mutchler has a breast cancer awareness program called Awareness 365. Lutz and his family have a program called Greet the Dawn for his mom who passed away with colon cancer.
