Meet The Woman Who Has 1,000 Barbie Dolls And Loved The New Movie

By Douglas Whitbread via SWNS

A Barbie fanatic who has 1,000 of the dolls in her collection “absolutely loved” the new film.

Clare Rawling, 42, saw a pre-release screening that left her in tears with its “lovely touches” and references to the doll’s vintage era.

The mom has forked out thousands of dollars on dolls and accessories spanning six decades.

She also boasts a brilliant collection of outfits, props and sets which she plays with by arranging them in scenarios and taking pictures for social media.

Clare, who saw the film on Monday with a friend in London, praised Margot Robbie and Ryan Reynolds’ real-life performances of Barbie and Ken as “spot on.”

And she said fans should be ready for a few “twists and turns” in the movie, which left her feeling emotional about her love for the “plastic fantastic” icon.

Clare Rawling has decided to buy back the Barbies she had as a child early last year as the pandemic hit. (SWNS)

“I absolutely love it. As a fan of Barbie, it spoke to me massively. There were references that related back to the vintage Barbies that I collect,” she said.

“I didn’t really have any preconceptions going into it. But as a fan, there were certainly lots of really lovely touches.

“It was very emotional in parts. I didn’t expect that – and it made me cry. There are definitely a few twists and turns.

“I’m a huge Ryan Gosling fan, but I didn’t anticipate what I got from him. He was spot on. Margot Robbie did incredibly well as Barbie. She’s beautiful.”

Full-time carer Clare also revealed she had already snagged some of the new dolls, released alongside the film, for her huge collection.

“I have a lot of friends who send me gifts, it’s a huge part of the community. My collection will never end, and I got gifted three of the new Barbies,” she said.

“They’ve just released a new wave for the movie. Mattel must be making an absolute fortune!”

Clare Rawling and her Barbie dolls at the pre-release screen of the Barbie movie.

Clare, from Blackpool, said her fascination with Barbie started when she was a child and her obsession was so intense that her dad converted into playspace for her.

“I remember being massively into Barbie from around age seven to 11, I loved them so much,” she said.

“I enjoyed the aesthetics, they were so pretty, and really loved all the accessories. I have lots of lovely Barbie memories.

“I would have kept playing with them but girls were being mean to me at school.”

Clare said she gave her mom permission to sell her original collection when she moved out because she didn’t want to take them all with her. And she didn’t pay much thought to her favorite childhood pastime until February 2021 when she saw one of her other treasured possessions for sale on eBay.

Her husband Colin, 58, bought her the toy, an Oh Penny doll - which then set Clare’s mind racing about how else she might be able to roll back the years.

“I turned 40 and we couldn’t go out because of the restrictions so I said, ‘I know, I’m 40 but can I have everything Barbie?,’” she said.

“I asked for everything to be pink and for a doll’s house as my present.”

Clare jumped in at the deep end by accumulating a staggering 70 dolls in just five months, and now has around 1000 in her possession.

“I have never had a connection with anything like this before, you think it’s just Barbie but it’s a bit of a rabbit hole when you get into it,” she said.

“Everything you can get in real life, you can get in Barbie too. It’s amazing.”

Basketball Clinic At Slate Belt Y Monday

The Greater Valley YMCA, in partnership with Chestnut Retreat Center and the Lehigh Dialogue Center for the 3rd Annual Basketball Clinic, announces two free youth basketball clinics with pro basketball player, Enes Freedom.

The clinics will be hosted on Monday, July 24th, at the Greater Valley YMCA's Slate Belt Branch and Easton/Phillipsburg Branch.

Morning Clinic: 10:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m. at the Slate Belt YMCA Branch located at 315 West Pennsylvania Avenue, Pen Argyl, PA 18072

Afternoon Clinic: 3:00 p.m.- 5:00 p.m. at the Easton/Phillipsburg YMCA Branch located at 1225 West Lafayette Street, Easton, PA 18042.

Freedom will teach the basketball clinics for children ages 8-18 for about 60-90 minutes, and then will allow another hour or so for autographs, pictures and refreshments. Participants are encouraged to bring their own memorabilia for Freedom to autograph. A parent/guardian must be present during the event.

Pre-registration for the event is required for this clinic and registration will be open until capacity is reached. Register at www.gv-ymca.org/events

The events provide a unique opportunity for Lehigh Valley youth to learn basketball skills and teamwork directly from a professional basketball player. In 2011, Enes Freedom was the third overall pick in the NBA draft. Over the past decade, Freedom has played with the Boston Celtics, New York Knicks, Oklahoma City Thunder, Portland Trail Blazers and the Utah Jazz.

Historical Maps Program Planned Heritage Center

The Slate Belt Heritage Center will hold their monthly historic program on Thursday, August 10th @ 7:00 PM. Speaker for the evening will be Mr. Joel Hoffner. Join Mr. Hoffner as he introduces the new Lehigh Valley Historical Maps Consortium (LVHNC) website that accesses the map inventory, discusses a selection of maps that are particularly fascinating and reviews the progress of an early schoolhouse mapping project here in the Slate Belt and entire Northampton County.

Genealogy and local history researchers sometimes overlook the treasure trove of information contained on maps and other geographical and visual image documents. The (LVHNC) was founded to create an inventory of these types of documents available to the public at twenty-two regional institutions. Mr. Hoffner is a Lehigh Valley native who has cataloged collections at the Northampton County Historical and Genealogical Society, National Museum of Industrial History, Moravian Archives, Moravian Historical Society and Hunter Martin Museum in Lower Mt. Bethel Twsp.

He has published four books mapping the tracts of land occupied by the early Warrantees and Patentees of ten of the townships of Northampton County. The event is free and open to the public. The Heritage Center is located at 30 North 1st Street, Bangor, Pa. Contact Karen Brewer @ 484-894-5661 for additional information.

Wind Gap Community Pharmacy presents

"Stuff The Bus"

A bus will be located in the parking lot of our pharmacy for the community to bring donations to "stuff the bus". The donations will then be distributed throughout the local school districts to help out multiple families with school supplies. Teachers all over the country spend their own money on supplies to help the kids whose family can't afford it. Therefore, we would like to give back to the teachers who give their all to their kids as they deserve some recognition for doing so.

List of supplies needed (but not limited to):

- | | |
|----------------------|------------------------|
| Backpacks | Glue sticks |
| #2 pencils | Bottle of white glue |
| Pens (black or blue) | Calculator |
| Loose leaf paper | Agenda |

Service Clubs Were Tenants of Third Floor Halls in Slate Belt Communities A Century Ago

Nearly a century ago in the Slate Belt, boasting a unique charm and a strong sense of community, a tradition was born—the gathering of service clubs in grand halls that adorned the upper floors of buildings.

In the year 1906, clubs, such as the True Ivories, Odd Fellows, Stone Church Encampment, and others, found their homes in the third-floor meeting rooms at the top of downtown buildings in Bangor. These rooms were no ordinary spaces; they were auditoriums or opera houses, adorned with regal decor and featuring a large stage at one end. The members of each club took pride in supplying their own ornate furniture and paraphernalia, including altars, Bible stands, and secret chairs hidden away when not in use.

Every borough in the region had its own meeting hall, a place where the residents came together, shared stories, and worked for the betterment of their communities. Bangor's Steinmetz Hall, located on the third floor of the Steinmetz Bakery building on Broadway and Murray streets, served as a gathering place for various clubs on different nights of the week. Meanwhile, Houseman Hall on Main Street and Pennsylvania Avenue was where the Masons, Sons of Veterans, American Mechanics, and Ladies Aid held their meetings.

The tradition of meeting in these ornate halls continued for years, with even the area's banks and stores—such as Correl's in Pen Argyl and Brays in East Bangor—providing their upstairs spaces for the meetings of various clubs.

However, in 1908, the Bangor Elks (Below) took a step that would set them apart when they decided to construct their own building.

As time went on, the service clubs continued to thrive, and their halls became symbols of community pride and togetherness. Over the years, the halls witnessed countless celebrations, gatherings, and acts of benevolence, each etching a new chapter in the history of the Slate Belt.

Yet, amid all the grandeur and celebration, there was a peculiar treasure in one of the halls—a chair unlike any other in the United States. Handmade in Wales, the chair was an Eisteddfod Chair, intended to be presented to the winner of a Welsh Eisteddfod—a competition celebrating song writing, singing, oration, and poetry writing. The esteemed winner of this competition was crowned and granted the title of Bard, one of the highest honors one could achieve in life. (Chair on display at the Slate Belt Heritage Center)

The chair (Right) presented in 1886 to the victorious bard in the Welsh town of Abergele, bore the name of its maker, J. R Ellis, displayed on a brass plaque on its back. It was a one-of-a-kind masterpiece, rich in history and significance. How this chair found its way to one of the halls in the Slate Belt remains a mystery, but it became a cherished relic, symbolizing the connections between the Welsh heritage and the proud community that had adopted it.

And so, the halls of the Slate Belt stood as a testament to the power of unity and shared values. These service clubs and their members, diverse in backgrounds and aspirations, worked hand in hand to create a tapestry of benevolence and compassion, leaving an indelible mark on the Slate Belt and its people. The grand halls, with their lofty ceilings and ornate decor, echoed the laughter and stories of generations past, continuing to inspire new generations to come together, to serve, and to be a force for good in their beloved communities.

Walking in Historical Waters

Saturday, August 26 at 2:00pm to 3:30pm

Walk IN the Bushkill Creek. Discover how early settlers manipulated the land and water to harness the flow of the creek to power different mechanisms. Gain a different perspective as you discover remnant land use clues from the past. Late-August is a great time to walk creeks because the water is not as high as is during other months, and it is still warm enough to feel refreshed as the rippling water grazes your ankles. This program is not appropriate for children under 8 years old or for those who find it difficult to maneuver through uneven, slippery terrain. Hiking poles will be provided along with boots, waders, and sneakers of a limited size assortment. We recommend wearing water shoes, wading boots, or old sneakers. Open toed shoes, sandals, or crocs are not appropriate for this activity. Registration is required.<https://events.dcnr.pa.gov/search/events?order=date&search=jacobsburg>

Working Moms Reveal Most Annoying Things Colleagues Say

By Mustafa Mirreh via SWNS

Working moms are on a mission to reduce the number of times they hear comments from colleagues like “she’s only part time,” “I forgot you leave early” and “I wish I could have Fridays off.”

A study, of 1,000 employed moms, revealed the common remarks they face in the workplace including, “you look tired,” “enjoy the rest of your week off” and “can’t your partner do any of the childcare?” But 55 percent are determined to change workplace lingo and get more recognition in the office.

And while 38 percent feel their work provides a great support network, 29 percent wish they heard more supportive phrases like “you’re doing a brilliant job,” “thanks for all your work this week” and “your children come first” more often.

However, 63 percent believe their colleagues mean no harm when making such comments.

While 26 percent admitted a co-worker has corrected themselves midway through saying something that could be perceived as ill-informed to working parents.

The research was commissioned by MALTESERS, to launch its #MotherLover campaign which aims to help lighten the load for working moms and encourage those around them to support where they can.

It has also partnered with women’s online community Peanut to create the “Work & Motherhood” content hub, providing actionable tips, tools and real-life advice around the challenges working mothers face.

Leah Dyckes, brand director at MALTESERS, said: “It’s hard for working mums; society tells them they can ‘have it all’, but the reality is often very different.

“There are so many challenges, and it can be a real struggle to make it work – and too often the expectations and structures at work and home aren’t changing quickly enough.

‘Through the #MotherLover campaign and meaningful partnership with Peanut, which directly creates spaces for mums every day, we can help shift this dynamic by asking everyone around women to step up, to show empathy, and do what they can as allies to lighten their load.”

The research also revealed moms’ top struggles when balancing their job as an employee and parent include fatigue and burnout (41 percent), emotional stress (32 percent), and childcare arrangements (30 percent).

While changing workdays due to child sickness (23 percent), morning preparations (17 percent) and school commitments (11 percent) were among the most stressful things for working parents.

And 82 percent said their employer is supportive of them when it comes to routine changes, such as childcare or working from home.

Top 10 Things Working Moms Would Like To Hear Less In The Workplace:

- You look tired
- She’s only part time
- I forgot you leave early
- Wish I could have Friday off
- I bet it feels like a break coming into the office
- I could never do that
- Enjoy the rest of the week off
- Must be nice to get a sleep-in on [days they aren’t in work)

Historic Poster On Car Window Tells Important Story About World War II

An 80-year-old poster on the window of a Dodge Car, circa 1942, on display at the Jacktown Summer Show held this past weekend tells a story about gasoline conservation during World War II.

This poster was designed by the American government for their World War II campaigns. The poster encourages people to use car share and encourages them to make direct inquiries at the ‘Transportation Center.’ The design depicts Hitler “taking a back seat” riding in a car while saluting.

During World War II, anti-Nazi propaganda was used to help the United States during the war. Some specifically, to persuade Americans to conserve resources so they could be utilized in war. One propaganda poster states, “When you ride ALONE you ride with Hitler! Join a Car-Sharing Club TODAY!” It shows a picture of a man driving a car, and an outline of Hitler in the passenger seat. Weimer Pursell created it in 1943 to help conserve oil.

During this time, many people found the ability to drive to be free and independent, so having this freedom taken away most likely angered many Americans. The reality of it was, the government just wanted people to change the way they drive in order to help the war effort, by rationing gasoline. This included a speed limit and car sharing. It did influence the driving culture at the time as it put a halt to the popularity of cars. Propaganda convinced Americans that if they did not ration gasoline, they were siding with Hitler.

The “Ride with Hitler” propaganda poster shows that during this period it was important for American citizens to work together to support the US military because otherwise they would be supporting Hitler.

Controlling Asthma When Air Quality is Bad

The American Lung Association Offers Important Insights

1. Outdoor Air Pollution

While outdoor air pollution can make breathing more difficult for everyone, it's particularly harmful to those with asthma, causing symptoms and increased need for medical attention, and to children, whose lungs are still growing and who breathe in more air per pound than adults. Children with asthma can be especially vulnerable to experiencing negative health effects caused by air pollution.

2.. Outdoor Air Pollution

The effects of climate change increase air pollutants like ozone, particle pollution, pollens, molds from increased rainfall and floods and smoke from wildfires. As temperatures increase, warmer air helps to form ground-level ozone pollution, also known as smog, a powerful air pollutant. Smog acts like a sunburn on your lungs and may trigger an asthma attack.

Before doing any activities outside, check the pollution level in your area by visiting Airnow.gov. When the air is bad, limit the time you and family members spend outdoors and try to move outdoor activities inside.

3. Climate Change

In some areas of the country, climate change is increasing the frequency and intensity of wildfires, and extending wildfire season. Wildfires produce smoke that contains particle pollution, consisting of dangerous particles tiny enough to travel deep into the lungs and sometimes even into the bloodstream. Particle pollution can cause asthma attacks, heart attacks, lung cancer and early death. But you don't need to live in an area prone to wildfire to be impacted. Winds can carry these particles for thousands of miles, meaning many people may have an unknown exposure. Preparation is key to protecting yourself and family. Check out American Lung Association's resources, which includes information about using N-95 masks for protection and creating a clean room inside your home. Visit lung.org/clean-air/emergencies-and-natural-disasters/wildfires to learn more.

4. Taking Action

Did you know you can reduce your own contribution to air pollution and climate change? Prioritize walking, biking and public transit over diesel or gasoline-powered vehicles. Conserve electricity and purchase your power from clean, non-combustion sources if you can. Don't burn leaves or trash and avoid burning wood whenever possible. Additionally, when looking for a place to live or upgrading your home, look for efficient, zero-emission appliances like induction stoves or heat pumps. You may even be able to take advantage of tax incentives for making these upgrades. (State Point)

BAHS Grad Angel Ackerman Writer and Publisher

Author Became Co-Founder of Parisian Phoenix Publishing in 2021

by Larry Cory

Bangor High School grad Angel Ackerman entered the publishing field in 2021 founding Parisian Phoenix Publishing. The firm was co-founded with graphic designer Gayle Hendricks and “aims to promote well-crafted writing that highlights themes and voices often overlooked in mainstream literature.”

They have an affiliate shop on Bookshop.org, where readers can find their current books. They also offer special offers and free signed books to their patrons on Patreon.

Parisian Phoenix Publishing provides services such as editing and design, allowing aspiring authors to work with their staff members to achieve their creative dreams. For more information or to order signed copies of their books directly, one can contact them at angel@parisianphoenix.com.

The name “Parisian Phoenix” reflects Angel’s passion for the French language, literature, and history, as well as the belief that it is never too late to rebuild oneself. She has a background in print journalism and has pursued creative and travel writing throughout her life. She holds a BA in English Language and Literature (with a focus on French) from Moravian College, a BA in International Affairs from Lafayette College, and has taken graduate level classes in World History at West Chester University, specializing in post-colonial Francophone Africa and Muslim relations.

She is also known for her “Fashion and Fiends” series, which combines elements of contemporary horror fiction with the humor and lightheartedness of late twentieth-century “chick lit.” Her books delve into weighted topics such as domestic violence, body image and self-esteem, depression and grief, colonialism, women’s rights, coming-of-age, religion, infibulation, infertility, and blended families. Ackerman’s characters face these challenges in their world, offering readers relatable experiences.

In addition to her writing career, Ackerman is actively involved in various nonprofit organizations. She fosters cats with Feline Urban Rescue and Rehab and provides communications oversight at ASPIRE to Autonomy, an Anti-Trafficking group.

She has also volunteered on the board of the Mary Meuser Memorial Library and the Greater Lehigh Valley Writers’ Group. In her professional nonprofit career, Ackerman has worked in public relations and “tech” curriculum development at the YWCA of Bethlehem, communications and fundraising at ProJeCt of Easton (an anti-poverty and literacy organization), and community relations and alumni publications at Lafayette College.

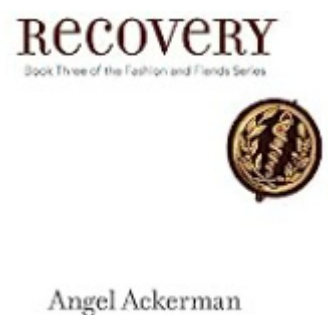

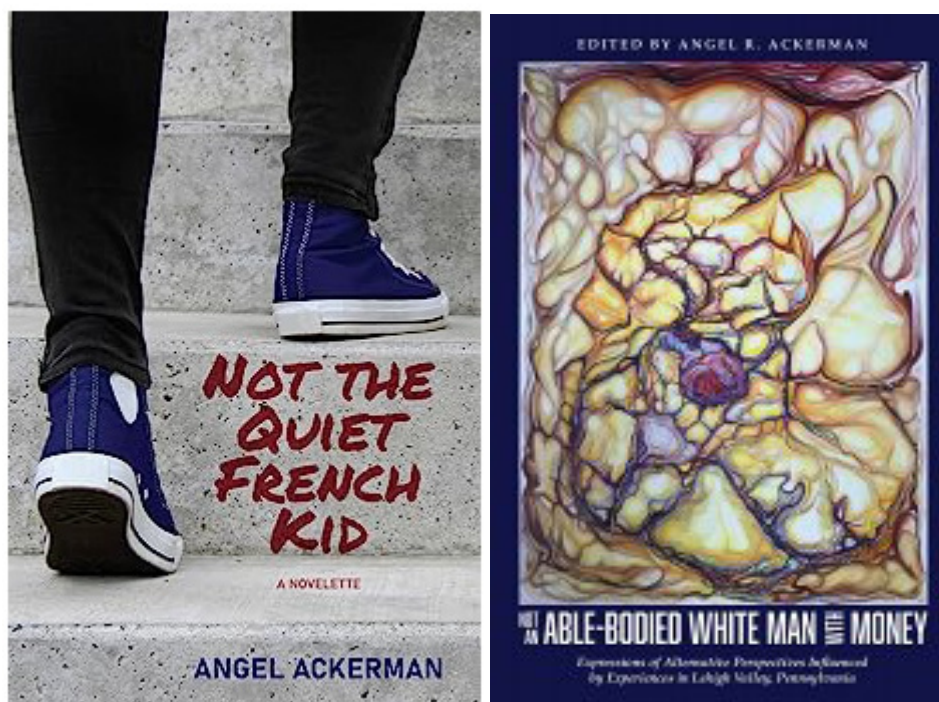

Ackerman also has a range of special interests, including France and Francophone Africa, animal welfare, disability, women’s rights, parenting, food/nutrition, and high fashion

Mt. Carmel Big Time Celebrating 130 Years

by Jolynn Holencik

The Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church “Big Time” is a time-honored tradition and will be celebrating 130 years of amusement, delightful food, and most importantly family. The tradition of the “Big Time” brings decades of family generations together to reminisce about old times past and to look forward to making new memories in the future.

The 130-year-old “Big Time” is one of the longest running Italian festivals in the United States and is still going strong. This year’s event will be held July 26th-30th.

The Annual “Big Time” dates back to 1893. The initial celebration was patterned after the festival that took place in Roseto Valfortore, Italy. The festival days were set aside to honor Mary, the Mother of Jesus. The festival is a five-day event beginning on a Wednesday and ending Sunday afternoon.

The “Big Time” is ever evolving but keeps the traditions intact. Entertainment, although there is no longer a circus, includes amusement rides for all ages and bands that play old school Italian favorites as well as modern hits for all generations.

A vast assortment of food complements the entertainment. This includes long time favorites: sausage and peppers, pizza frita, pasta, and Italian pastries.

The fireworks display on Saturday night is spectacular and what makes it unique is that the show starts at 11:45 PM.

On a beautiful summer night the streets of Roseto are filled with wonder and on this one night you could call Roseto the tiny city that doesn’t sleep.

The Queen of the “Big Time” is appointed by fundraising efforts and she is crowned by the previous year’s Queen in a ceremony Saturday evening. The princess, page boys, and flower girls join The Queen on her float which parades down Garibaldi Avenue, the main street of Roseto. The queen’s court follows in convertible automobiles.

On Sunday, the festival turns its focus to Our Blessed Virgin Mary. The crowning of the Blessed Mother is the main event of the “Big Time”. The queen crowns the statue of Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

Following the crowning, the priests and parish affiliated groups and parishioners parade down Garibaldi Avenue following Our Lady of Mount Carmel’s float as they all recite the Rosary led by a few parishioners.

Come out and experience the Big Time July 26th-30th 20, 560 N 6th St., Bangor PA 18013. <https://mtcarmel-roseto.org>
