Lehigh Valley International Airport Terminal Modernization Completed

Rep. Susan Wild secured $5 million in Bipartisan Infrastructure Law funding and $600,000 in FY23 Community Project Funding

ALLENTOWN, P.A. – Friday, Congresswoman Susan Wild celebrated the completion of the Lehigh Valley International Airport (ABE)’s terminal modernization project, joining U.S. Secretary of Transportation Pete Buttigieg, Pennsylvania Governor Josh Shapiro, Lehigh Valley-Northampton Airport Authority Executive Director Thomas Stoudt, and other leaders and community members at the TSA Checkpoint and Terminal Connector Unveiling.

This project was made possible by federal investments that Rep. Wild worked to deliver for the Lehigh Valley: $5 million in Bipartisan Infrastructure Law funding and $600,000 in Community Project Funding that Rep. Wild pushed to bring to ABE. Last year, Rep. Wild and Secretary Buttigieg toured the project in progress. Now, ABE’s modernization and expansion is the first projects to be funded, constructed, and finally completed by the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law.

“The Lehigh Valley International Airport serves as a critical economic driver for our community, providing jobs, bringing visitors, and connecting our thriving local economy to the rest of the nation and world,” said Rep. Susan Wild (PA-07). “It’s one of the first projects to be funded, constructed, and now completed by the historic Bipartisan Infrastructure Law – and I’m proud to see these investments in ABE that I worked to deliver getting off the ground to modernize our airport infrastructure and support the Lehigh Valley economy.”

“Last year, this was among the first projects we funded through the new Airport Terminal Program under President Biden’s historic infrastructure law—which, of course, passed thanks to so many dedicated leaders like Senator Casey and Representative Wild. And now that it’s complete, passengers here will be able to quickly get through security and get to their gate, which means a faster, easier experience for everyone,” said U.S. Secretary of Transportation Pete Buttigieg.

“Federal, state, and local officials worked together to get this done – and I’m proud to be here on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to celebrate the opening of this new terminal and TSA checkpoint here at the Lehigh Valley International Airport. This expansion should send a clear message that Allentown and the Lehigh Valley are ready to drive innovation and economic opportunity on a national and global scale,” said Governor Josh Shapiro. “Our Commonwealth was a major supporter of this project, investing nearly 13 million dollars in this expansion. We are going to support your continued growth and help the Lehigh Valley compete, not just across the nation but around the world – and this new terminal will be the gateway to that progress.”

“This terminal modernization project is the very first construction project I visited that was funded by the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act,” said U.S. Senator Bob Casey (D-PA). “This law is the largest long-term investment in our infrastructure and competitiveness in nearly a century. The Lehigh Valley and surrounding communities are already reaping the benefits of much-needed dollars for important projects.”

About Federal Investments in the ABE’s Modernization:

This project is funded in part by the Airport Terminal Program, one of three aviation programs created by the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law that Rep. Wild fought to pass. The law provides a $5 billion investment in airports to be made over the next five years to address the aging infrastructure of America’s airports. ABE received $5 million of this Bipartisan Infrastructure Law funding in July 2022 for construction of a new four lane TSA checkpoint.

Rep. Wild successfully delivered $600,000 of further federal investment through FY23 Community Project Funding for the TSA Checkpoint and Terminal Connector project – specifically, the acquisition and installation of public circulation control devices.

The Lehigh Valley International Airport’s TSA Checkpoint and Terminal Connector project includes a new 4-lane TSA checkpoint to help improve wait times and expand operating capacity. The project addresses critical operational needs so more people can safely travel through the airport – and increasing the footprint of passengers traveling through our region means fueling local economic growth and allowing the Lehigh Valley to soar to greater heights as a transportation and economic hub on the Eastern seaboard.

Hiking poles will be provided along with boots, waders, and sneakers of a limited size assortment. We recommend wearing water shoes, wading boots, or old sneakers. Meet The Woman Who Has 1,000 Barbie Dolls And Loved The New Movie

By Douglas Whitbread via SWNS

A Barbie fanatic who has 1,000 of the dolls in her collection “absolutely loved” the new film.

Clare Rawling, 42, saw a pre-release screening that left her in tears with its “lovely touches” and references to the doll’s vintage era.

The mom has forked out thousands of dollars on dolls and accessories spanning six decades.

She also boasts a brilliant collection of outfits, props and sets which she plays with by arranging them in scenarios and taking pictures for social media.

Clare, who saw the film on Monday with a friend in London, praised Margot Robbie and Ryan Reynolds’ real-life performances of Barbie and Ken as “spot on.”

And she said fans should be ready for a few “twists and turns” in the movie, which left her feeling emotional about her love for the “plastic fantastic” icon.

Clare Rawling has decided to buy back the Barbies she had as a child early last year as the pandemic hit. (SWNS)

“I absolutely love it. As a fan of Barbie, it spoke to me massively. There were references that related back to the vintage Barbies that I collect,” she said.

“I didn’t really have any preconceptions going into it. But as a fan, there were certainly lots of really lovely touches.

“It was very emotional in parts. I didn’t expect that – and it made me cry. There are definitely a few twists and turns.

“I’m a huge Ryan Gosling fan, but I didn’t anticipate what I got from him. He was spot on. Margot Robbie did incredibly well as Barbie. She’s beautiful.”

Full-time carer Clare also revealed she had already snagged some of the new dolls, released alongside the film, for her huge collection.

“I have a lot of friends who send me gifts, it’s a huge part of the community. My collection will never end, and I got gifted three of the new Barbies,” she said.

“They’ve just released a new wave for the movie. Mattel must be making an absolute fortune!”

Clare Rawling and her Barbie dolls at the pre-release screen of the Barbie movie.

Clare, from Blackpool, said her fascination with Barbie started when she was a child and her obsession was so intense that her dad converted into playspace for her.

“I remember being massively into Barbie from around age seven to 11, I loved them so much,” she said.

“I enjoyed the aesthetics, they were so pretty, and really loved all the accessories. I have lots of lovely Barbie memories.

“I would have kept playing with them but girls were being mean to me at school.”

Clare said she gave her mom permission to sell her original collection when she moved out because she didn’t want to take them all with her. And she didn’t pay much thought to her favorite childhood pastime until February 2021 when she saw one of her other treasured possessions for sale on eBay.

Her husband Colin, 58, bought her the toy, an Oh Penny doll - which then set Clare’s mind racing about how else she might be able to roll back the years.

“I turned 40 and we couldn’t go out because of the restrictions so I said, ‘I know, I’m 40 but can I have everything Barbie?,’” she said.

“I asked for everything to be pink and for a doll’s house as my present.”

Clare jumped in at the deep end by accumulating a staggering 70 dolls in just five months, and now has around 1000 in her possession.

“I have never had a connection with anything like this before, you think it’s just Barbie but it’s a bit of a rabbit hole when you get into it,” she said.

“Everything you can get in real life, you can get in Barbie too. It’s amazing.”

Working Moms Reveal Most Annoying Things Colleagues Say

By Mustafa Mirreh via SWNS

Working moms are on a mission to reduce the number of times they hear comments from colleagues like “she’s only part time,” “I forgot you leave early” and “I wish I could have Fridays off.”

A study, of 1,000 employed moms, revealed the common remarks they face in the workplace including, “you look tired,” “enjoy the rest of your week off” and “can’t your partner do any of the childcare?” But 55 percent are determined to change workplace lingo and get more recognition in the office.

And while 38 percent feel their work provides a great support network, 29 percent wish they heard more supportive phrases like “you’re doing a brilliant job,” “thanks for all your work this week” and “your children come first” more often.

However, 63 percent believe their colleagues mean no harm when making such comments.

While 26 percent admitted a co-worker has corrected themselves midway through saying something that could be perceived as ill-informed to working parents.

The research was commissioned by MALTESERS, to launch its #MotherLover campaign which aims to help lighten the load for working moms and encourage those around them to support where they can.

It has also partnered with women’s online community Peanut to create the “Work & Motherhood” content hub, providing actionable tips, tools and real-life advice around the challenges working mothers face.

Leah Dyckes, brand director at MALTESERS, said: “It’s hard for working mums; society tells them they can ‘have it all’, but the reality is often very different.

“There are so many challenges, and it can be a real struggle to make it work – and too often the expectations and structures at work and home aren’t changing quickly enough.

‘Through the #MotherLover campaign and meaningful partnership with Peanut, which directly creates spaces for mums every day, we can help shift this dynamic by asking everyone around women to step up, to show empathy, and do what they can as allies to lighten their load.”

The research also revealed moms’ top struggles when balancing their job as an employee and parent include fatigue and burnout (41 percent), emotional stress (32 percent), and childcare arrangements (30 percent).

While changing workdays due to child sickness (23 percent), morning preparations (17 percent) and school commitments (11 percent) were among the most stressful things for working parents.

And 82 percent said their employer is supportive of them when it comes to routine changes, such as childcare or working from home.

Top 10 Things Working Moms Would Like To Hear Less In The Workplace:

- You look tired
- She’s only part time
- I forgot you leave early
- Wish I could have Friday off
- I bet it feels like a break coming into the office
- I could never do that
- Enjoy the rest of the week off
- Must be nice to get a sleep-in on [days they aren’t in work)

Historic Poster On Car Window Tells Important Story About World War II

An 80-year-old poster on the window of a Dodge Car, circa 1942, on display at the Jacktown Summer Show held this past weekend tells a story about gasoline conservation during World War II.

This poster was designed by the American government for their World War II campaigns. The poster encourages people to use car share and encourages them to make direct inquiries at the ‘Transportation Center.’ The design depicts Hitler “taking a back seat” riding in a car while saluting.

During World War II, anti-Nazi propaganda was used to help the United States during the war. Some specifically, to persuade Americans to conserve resources so they could be utilized in war. One propaganda poster states, “When you ride ALONE you ride with Hitler! Join a Car-Sharing Club TODAY!” It shows a picture of a man driving a car, and an outline of Hitler in the passenger seat. Weimer Pursell created it in 1943 to help conserve oil.

During this time, many people found the ability to drive to be free and independent, so having this freedom taken away most likely angered many Americans. The reality of it was, the government just wanted people to change the way they drive in order to help the war effort, by rationing gasoline. This included a speed limit and car sharing. It did influence the driving culture at the time as it put a halt to the popularity of cars. Propaganda convinced Americans that if they did not ration gasoline, they were siding with Hitler.

The “Ride with Hitler” propaganda poster shows that during this period it was important for American citizens to work together to support the US military because otherwise they would be supporting Hitler.

Controlling Asthma When Air Quality is Bad

The American Lung Association Offers Important Insights

1. Outdoor Air Pollution

While outdoor air pollution can make breathing more difficult for everyone, it's particularly harmful to those with asthma, causing symptoms and increased need for medical attention, and to children, whose lungs are still growing and who breathe in more air per pound than adults. Children with asthma can be especially vulnerable to experiencing negative health effects caused by air pollution.

2.. Outdoor Air Pollution

The effects of climate change increase air pollutants like ozone, particle pollution, pollens, molds from increased rainfall and floods and smoke from wildfires. As temperatures increase, warmer air helps to form ground-level ozone pollution, also known as smog, a powerful air pollutant. Smog acts like a sunburn on your lungs and may trigger an asthma attack.

Before doing any activities outside, check the pollution level in your area by visiting Airnow.gov. When the air is bad, limit the time you and family members spend outdoors and try to move outdoor activities inside.

3. Climate Change

In some areas of the country, climate change is increasing the frequency and intensity of wildfires, and extending wildfire season. Wildfires produce smoke that contains particle pollution, consisting of dangerous particles tiny enough to travel deep into the lungs and sometimes even into the bloodstream. Particle pollution can cause asthma attacks, heart attacks, lung cancer and early death. But you don't need to live in an area prone to wildfire to be impacted. Winds can carry these particles for thousands of miles, meaning many people may have an unknown exposure. Preparation is key to protecting yourself and family. Check out American Lung Association's resources, which includes information about using N-95 masks for protection and creating a clean room inside your home. Visit lung.org/clean-air/emergencies-and-natural-disasters/wildfires to learn more.

4. Taking Action

Did you know you can reduce your own contribution to air pollution and climate change? Prioritize walking, biking and public transit over diesel or gasoline-powered vehicles. Conserve electricity and purchase your power from clean, non-combustion sources if you can. Don't burn leaves or trash and avoid burning wood whenever possible. Additionally, when looking for a place to live or upgrading your home, look for efficient, zero-emission appliances like induction stoves or heat pumps. You may even be able to take advantage of tax incentives for making these upgrades. (State Point)
