Pen Argyl Area High School Memorial Day Assembly

Pen Argyl Area High School will be hosting a Memorial Day Assembly on Thursday, May 25 from 8:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. in the Alumni Stadium of the high school. On May 25 the student body will gather outside for the student run assembly where speakers will talk about the importance of Memorial Day and the history behind it. In coordination with the branches of the military, many traditions and services will be held throughout the assembly to honor fallen soldiers.

The event will include a flag folding ceremony, complete with the playing of taps, using a flag we had flown over the United States Capitol. The goal of the assembly is to stress the importance of Memorial Day and honor all the brave men and women who served for our country and gave their lives protecting our nation.

The high school is also selling flags for anyone in the district to buy. The flags can be dedicated to honor a fallen soldier for their service to our country. These flags will then be planted in the front of the high school on the hill for everyone to see. Community involvement can include purchasing the flags and attending the assembly.

After this event we aim to have everyone understand the importance of Memorial Day and hope that everyone will remember the soldiers who have served. The Knights' Order, the Character Education program at Pen Argyl High School that organized the event, is responsible for service projects throughout the school and community. The Knights' Order focuses on improving school climate, culture, and tolerance through hosting events and

Skin Care Prevention

Did you know skin cancer is the most common type of cancer in the U.S. is skin cancer, estimated to affect one in five Americans in their lifetime? Fortunately, there are steps we can take to reduce our risk as summer arrives:

1. Apply sunscreen - When you're spending time outdoors, make sure to apply sunscreen with an SPF of at least 30 every two hours. It's especially important to do this between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. when the sun's rays are strongest.
2. Cover up - Wearing protective clothing, like a wide-brimmed hat and long-sleeved shirt, can help protect your skin from the sun's harmful rays. Unlike sunscreen, which must be reapplied constantly, UPF clothing protects your skin from sun rays all day.
3. Seek shade - When possible, stay in the shade, especially during peak sun hours, or bring along a portable sun tent.
4. Check your skin - Be sure to regularly check your skin for any unusual spots or changes. If you notice anything suspicious, make an appointment with a dermatologist.
5. Protect your kids - Children's skin is especially sensitive, so make sure to apply sunscreen regularly and keep them covered up with hats and clothing.

Remember, prevention is key when it comes to skin cancer. By following these simple steps, you can ensure that you and your family have a safe, enjoyable, and sun-filled summer.

Praying for Maya

Our little granddaughter Maya was airlifted to Children's Hospital of Philadelphia earlier with a brain bleed. Our family has been asking for lots of prayers lately. This one's super huge! Put her on a convoy of prayer chains.)

My husband came home last night from his monthly photography club meeting. Walked over to me and secretly handed me the cutest little group of miniature ducks. Right away I thought in my mind, Maya would love one of those. Because she has a fascination for tiny little creatures. Of any nature. And I began to think.

So hence begins my quest from everyone out there seeing this message. Today begins MAYAS Miniature Collect till She's Home. I am asking for a favor from any one of you reading this. Send or drop off a mini of your choice for Maya to give hope and encouragement for her to come home healed. PM me for address. Thank you, God Bless (this mini is about the size of an adult's fingernail) but use your own judgement.

The bleeding in her brain has stopped, however she has an infection and won't be home anytime soon.

Please contact Shelly Mensch on Facebook.

New More Infectious Covid Subvariant Spreading

St. Luke's Health Network says that although we may have emerged from the pandemic stage of COVID-19, the virus continues to evolve and be active. The CDC reports over 13,000 reported cases a day and over 1,000 COVID related deaths per week.

The Omicron variant, which emerged in November 2021, has been responsible for many subvariants. The latest is XBB 1.16, more commonly known as Arcturus, which is also the name of the brightest star in the northern sky. Compared to previous strains, this subvariant is more infectious but not more fulminant, meaning that it does not cause worse illness.

Currently, Arcturus is responsible for 10% of the COVID-19 cases in the United States and is rapidly increasing. Since outbreaks have been reported in California, Washington, Virginia, Texas, as well as our bordering states of New Jersey and New York, it can be assumed that it is present in Pennsylvania, said Dr. Jeffrey Jahre, St. Luke's senior vice president of medical and academic affairs and section chief emeritus of infectious diseases.

Patients who become ill with this strain more frequently have fevers. In addition, there appears to be an increased association with conjunctivitis an inflammation of the outer membrane of the eye that is more commonly known as pink eye causing localized redness, blurriness, itching and a feeling of grittiness.

Prior to the emergence of this variant, COVID conjunctivitis was seen in previous strains up to 3% of the time. There are reports that COVID conjunctivitis is more frequently seen in children, including babies. In addition to COVID, conjunctivitis usually is caused by bacteria, other viruses such as Adenovirus an agent of the common cold and particularly at this time of year allergies.

"Differentiating viral conjunctivitis, including COVID-19, from allergies, may be difficult and may require evaluation by an eye specialist," Jahre said. "If a fever is present, it is more likely to be COVID. If another individual in the family has diagnosed COVID, then anyone else in the family experiencing conjunctivitis symptoms should assume that he/she may also have COVID and take appropriate health measures and precautions to avoid affecting others."

James Gloria Fine Arts Studio Classes For All Artists

The James Gloria Fine Arts Studio is now offering studio classes for artists of all levels, beginner to experienced — teen through adults.

AI and the Artist

It seems that there are at least a few breathless articles a day about the power of Artificial Intelligence, and warnings about its potential pitfalls.

For artists, AI is presented as an existential threat; a device that will make artists obsolete. After all, anyone will be able to enter a few words into the AI program Dall-E and it will produce an image. Why hire an artist? Why paint for that matter when you can just order up an image in any style from a keypad.

This seems to miss the essence of why we make art. We mistake the product of a painting for the experience of painting. I paint to have an experience; for the challenge of the process. It reminds me of the 1970's intro to ABC's "Wide World of Sports"...I paint for "the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat...the human drama of ... competition".

Maybe painting a landscape outdoors isn't quite as risky as a ski jump, but grappling with visual challenges and learning a craft has its own rewards. And unlike the ski jump, you can do it safely for years to come.

Private classes tailored to your personal goals and abilities. Paint for fun or hone your skills and experiment with new techniques

- Learn the Fundamentals of Art and Design
- Hone skills of observation and perception
- Explore new media: watercolor, oils, sculpture and more
