Finding Your Roots in the Slate Belt

How do you search for ancestors and connect your genealogy to family stories, local history and to national events? Come to the Slate Belt Heritage monthly program on Thursday May 12th at 7:00 PM to discover the process. Sharon Oxford Gothard, from the History Room of the Easton Public Library, will talk about where you look for family information and what resources are available at the History Room. Melissa Hough, curator of the Slate Belt Heritage Center, will explain how genealogy connects people and family stories, which helped create the title of the current exhibit: "We Look Higher". The exhibit is based on the Center's latest ethnic publication: "The African American Experience in the Slate Belt". Featured, also in the exhibit, is a tribute to the many other ethnic groups that came to the Slate Belt seeking a better life and stable employment such as the Welsh, Cornish, Irish, Italians and Bulgarians. The program is free and open to the public. The Center is now open Saturdays and Sundays 12-3. Admission is free, but donations are kindly accepted to fund the new exhibit and new look of the Center. For additional information please contact: Karen Brewer @ 484-894-5661

The Pennsylvania Longrifle... and You!

Saturday, May 28 at 10:30am to 11:30am

In this seminar, guest speaker Dave Ehrig will explore the roots of our state's iconic new symbol. From humble frontier roots, an evolution of gunmaking technology took place, the rifled barrel. While Henry of Lancaster, along with other Lancaster gunsmiths like Matthias Roesser, George Fainot, Jacob Dickert, and others were among the first to exploit the legendary accuracy of long rifled barrels, the Henry family's fame would increase as the technology was brought to the Moravian Societies in Christian's Spring, Nazareth, and Boulton. To hold an early Andreas Albrecht, Christian Oerter, or Wm. Henry Jr. longrifle in one's hands is to create such an indelible memory of Pennsylvania history that it causes many skilled modern longrifle builders to attempt to recreate them. This program will raise your spirits and enlighten your pride in the Keystone State and its iconic gun. Registration is required.

National Pet Parents Day

On the last Sunday in April, National Pet Parents Day recognizes the pet parents who go the extra mile to care for their fur babies.

There is a very special connection, a unique bond, between a pet and its owner. This unique relationship, which can often last for many years, is often a vital part of the ‘pet parents’ life. Their loved pets are considered to be a member of the family.

Some pet parents are new to the experience. Others are repeat performers. No matter how many pets or how often they engage in the relationship, it’s a special one every time.

The observance was created to honor all dedicated pet parents across the nation with a special day of their own.

There are several ways to celebrate this day.

- Give yourself some extra cuddle time with your pets
- Pick up some pet swag like National Day Calendar’s paw some socks! You can find the ones below in our store.
- Take a photo with your pet.

QUESTION OF THE DAY

In which year was Earth Day first celebrated in the United States?

And the answer: 1970.

Inspired by the student anti-war protests of the 1960s, Senator Gaylord Nelson founded Earth Day on April 22nd, 1970 to raise awareness about environmental issues and transform public attitudes. It was later also adopted by the United Nations with the name International Mother Earth Day.

In July 1970, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) was established in response to the growing public demand for cleaner water, air, and land. Largely inspired by the recent rise in climate-minded protests, the EPA increased environmental awareness with a mission to protect public health.

Easter Rebellion Begins

On April 24, 1916, on Easter Monday in Dublin, the Irish Republican Brotherhood, a secret organization of Irish nationalists led by Patrick Pearse, launches the so-called Easter Rebellion, an armed uprising against British rule. Assisted by militant Irish socialists under James Connolly, Pearse and his fellow Republicans rioted and attacked British provincial government headquarters across Dublin and seized the Irish capital’s General Post Office.

Following these successes, they proclaimed the independence of Ireland, which had been under the repressive thumb of the United Kingdom for centuries, and by the next morning were in control of much of the city. Later that day, however, British authorities launched a counteroffensive, and by April 29 the uprising had been crushed. Nevertheless, the Easter Rebellion is considered a significant marker on the road to establishing an independent Irish republic.

Following the uprising, Pearse and 14 other nationalist leaders were executed for their participation and held up as martyrs by many in Ireland.
