Tips for Ordering Takeout or Delivery

According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, there is currently no evidence to suggest that COVID-19 can be transmitted through food or food packaging. It is believed that the virus spreads from person-to-person through close contact or respiratory droplets, for instance when a person coughs or sneezes. However, it may be possible for viruses to survive on surfaces and objects, reinforcing the need to observe proper hygiene and food safety practices.

When ordering takeout or having food delivered practice social distancing, maintaining a distance of six feet, whenever possible. Proper food safety practices should always be implemented while preparing foods. This includes frequently washing hands with soap and water and washing surfaces and utensils with hot soapy water after each use.

Even though you aren't cooking together, try to still eat together as a family. Use the unexpected time at home as an opportunity to reconnect as a family and make family meals a regular routine. Involve your kids in setting the table and let them put takeout or delivery food on plates so they can feel like a part of the process. atright.org

Protect Yourself Outdoors During Fall Months

As people continue to spend time outdoors during the fall months, the Wolf Administration wants to remind residents of the dangers of tick and mosquito-borne illnesses, and to take steps to protect themselves.

"Fall is for many the best time for hiking with beautiful colors, crisp air, and fewer bugs, but many people are surprised to learn that there are ticks that remain active throughout the year, so it's always important to take preventative measures so you can enjoy the mental and physical health benefits of being in the outdoors," DCNR Secretary Cindy Adams Dunn said.

Before heading outdoors, it is important to cover exposed skin, wear light-colored clothing (to aid in insect detection), tuck your pants into your socks, and use an insect repellent containing 20 percent or more DEET.

You also can treat your clothing with a product containing permethrin to repel ticks. These steps will help protect you from both ticks and mosquitoes

Wind Gap Turkey Drive

Thanksgiving is two months away. Plans are underway for another Turkey Drive this year for the food bank in Wind Gap .

Last year was a beautiful display of generosity on the community's part. That said, this year they want to start earlier, possibly reaching more people. Drop off date is not definitive as of yet. They suggest that you pick up an extra can of vegetables or mashed potatoes when you shop up to drop off date.

And if financially you can't help, there are other ways. A simple share and like is an incredible way to help.

The food bank accepts non perishable items throughout the year . There is a drop off box outside the old catholic church located on 512 and Genoga in Wind Gap . (On the Genoga side)

CDC Expands the Definition of 'Close Contact'

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention released new guidelines on Wednesday regarding what counts as "close contact" with someone who has COVID-19.

The expanded definition includes brief but repeated exposure to others with the virus that adds up to 15 minutes over a 24-hour period. Previously, the CDC defined close contact as spending 15 consecutive minutes or more within six feet of someone with COVID-19.

This makes mask-wearing even more important for preventing transmission includes live-action, high-definition videos to provide comprehensive instruction in hunting safety practices. It can be taken on any computer or mobile device. You are free to complete it at your own pace, as your progress is saved each time you log out of the system.

The cost of the course is normally $19.50 but is currently being waived during the COVID-19 pandemic with the use of a code. Once you've studied and passed the course, you can immediately print your temporary hunter education certificate. The permanent certificate will arrive in the mail in two to three weeks.

To qualify, students must be at least 11 years old. For more information, visit www.pgc.pa.gov and click on "Hunter-Trapper Education" under the "Education" tab. Quiet Valley Living Spooky Days

Spooky Days on the Quiet Valley Farm is Friday October 23 and Saturday October 24 from 5 pm to 8:00 pm. Groups go out continuously throughout. Social distancing will be observed and masks are required.

Enjoy exploring parts of the farm as you help solve a “murder” that took place in the 1800s. This is a true who-dun-it, playing detective activity, developed by a forensic specialist. Visit the murder scene, meet possible suspects, pay attention for clues and name the evildoer. This is a perfect evening for those looking for something different to do than a haunted house.

Due to COVID concerns the daytime children’s activities are being postponed until 2021.

Spooky Days on the Farm will take place rain or shine; Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for children (8-12). Get tickets on our website where you can schedule a time for your visit or purchase them at the gift shop when you arrive. Not recommended for those under 8 years of age. All money raised is used to support the mission of our non-profit historic farm museum and its educational programs.

Senate Bills Strengthen PA Mental Health Coverage

The State Senate approved legislation to ensure that mental health and substance use disorders receive the same level of care as other health issues, according to Senator Mario Scavella (R-40).

House Bill 1696 and House Bill 1439 would strengthen enforcement of the federal Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 by ensuring insurance plans provide mental health care that is similar to coverage for other diseases and illnesses. The bills also require insurers annually attest to steps they have taken to comply with the law.

The current system of enforcement relies on addressing complaints from consumers who may not know about the law or fully understand the services that are included in their health plan. The package of bills would ensure all insurers offer customers the level of care and services that are required by law.

“This legislation solidifies the Insurance Department’s role in regulating insurer compliance with mental health parity and requires insurers to legally attest to compliance efforts and makes certain public disclosures of those efforts. It’s a second layer of accountability,”
