News Today - NOT Next Week

Holiday Celebrations Can Spread The Virus

As millions of people are expected to travel over the upcoming Labor Day weekend, health experts have warned celebrations could cause coronavirus superspreading events and hamper efforts to control the U.S. outbreak as we head into the fall.

According to the itinerary website TripIt, travel bookings are down by a third this year on the last amid the COVID-19 pandemic, but millions are still due to make tracks this weekend, ABC News reported.

After spikes in cases were reported in some parts of the country after Memorial Day and Independence Day, officials are worried Labor Day gatherings will worsen the outbreak which has already killed over 180,000 people and caused over 6.1 million infections in the U.S., according to John Hopkins University.

On Wednesday, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Director Dr. Robert Redfield told

Yahoo Finance: "We don't want it [Labor Day] to become a spreading event" and asked people to be "smart about crowds."

He said: "If we have a spreading event right now, with Labor Day, three to four weeks later we're going to have that surge of new cases, and it's going to be really complicated." Redfield said: "This could be one of the most difficult public health winters we've ever had, with the convergence of flu and COVID."

Pennsylvania Litter Campaign

Volunteers are being sought for Pick Up Pennsylvania, a campaign of small-group or solo litter cleanup events being held Monday, September 1, to Monday, November 30. Volunteer groups who clean up roadways through the PennDOT Adopt-A-Highway program are also encouraged to participate.

“The COVID-19 pandemic brought twin challenges to our litter cleanup efforts this spring. It put group cleanup events on hold, while at the same time, littering increased in state parks and many other places as more people pursued outdoor activities,” said Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection Secretary Patrick McDonnell.

Volunteers must take proper steps to mitigate the spread of COVID-19, including wearing masks, practicing social distancing, and limiting outdoor groups to 250 people or fewer and any indoor gathering to groups of 25 people or fewer.

Registered Pick Up Pennsylvania events can get free trash bags, gloves, and safety vests as supplies last. Cleanups in any location, for example, along roadsides, in neighborhoods and parks, and on shorelines, are eligible.

Individuals, families, neighbors, students, civic organizations, and local governments are all invited to participate. Additional information is available at the Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful website.
